CONFEREES AGREE ON MEDICARE

Just a few days ago he had 331 sinks, 270 toilet bowls, 24 bathtubs and 26 house radiators.

Piraino came by the lot because of a strange compulsion that comes over him when he attends auctions.

About 10 days ago he went to a Nassau County auction in Garden City and bought the entire lot of sinks, toilet bowls, bathtubs and radiators for $50.50.

Vacation Used Up

County officials told him he had to remove the articles from the warehouse within a week.

"I have to take a week's vacation I had planned on using later in the summer," he said. "I lost about 12 pounds carting these things around, my wife thinks I'm some kind of a nut and my oldest daughter wants to change her last name so people won't know we're related."

Within a few days after word of his purchase was carried in newspapers, Piraino began receiving calls and letters from wholesalers and individuals wanting to buy some of his merchandise

"But I had to sell it to the wholesalers because I couldn't get it out of the warehouse fast enough to suit the county," he said. "I got a truck and carted quite a few of the things out and put them in the back yard of a friend. Buddy, I tell you, I was seeing toilet bowls in my dreams."

After paying for the truck rental, hiring a couple of youths to help him move some of the material and paying the small auction price, Piraino said, "I didn't really have too much money left over—maybe a couple hundred bucks."

"Everybody was saying, 'Boy, you really made a killing,' " he recalled. "But let me tell you, it wasn't worth the worry for the little bit I made."

When it comes to a bargain, Piraino said, "I just can't help myself. I have a thing about bargains."

LBJ, McNamara Begin Penetrating Viet Review

Washington (AP) — President Johnson met with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and a panel of top strategists Wednesday to begin a "thorough and penetrating review of many facets" of the Viet Nam situation.

McNamara had just returned from a five-day inspection of the battle-churned Southeast Asian nation with word that the situation there has deteriorated in the past year and many more troops are needed to fight the Communist Viet Cong.

The description of two separate White House sessions was given to newsmen by Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers, when asked if it was fair to describe the conferences as a reappraisal of policy in Viet Nam. Moyers, instead, called it "a review of our situation out there."

With another session scheduled Thursday, no immediate decisions were announced and none appeared forthcoming soon, notably on how much larger the U.S. troop commitment must be. The next meeting will focus on purely military aspects of the Vietnamese problem, with McNamara and members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff sitting with Johnson.

Moyers said that, during Wednesday's hours-long morning and afternoon sessions, the discussions centered on operations of the intelligence apparatus in the Far East, the role of the U.S. Information Agency and economic problems as they relate to pacification and reconstruction.

He said the meetings are among a series Johnson will hold in the next few days with this group and members of this group to review McNamara's report and discuss it in detail.

"They are discussing in great detail all aspects of the many problems we face in Viet Nam," Moyers said.

"The situation has deteriorated over the past 12 months," McNamara reported to newsmen upon arriving at Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland at dawn from a five-day inspection of the war front.

He said heavy infiltration of regular army soldiers from North Viet Nam has dramatically boosted Viet Cong guerrilla strength to some 165,000—compared with South Viet Nam's government forces totaling 500,000.

About 75,000 American troops are in South Viet Nam now. For an anti-guerrilla campaign, experts figure government forces should outnumber insurgents by somewhere between 5 and 15 to 1. There is talk of sending in another 100,000 U.S. GI's.

A legislative committee assigned the delicate task of fashioning an acceptable plan to redistrict the Unicameral was subjected Wednesday to the same reapportionment story, umpteenth verse.

A plan crossing county lines will violate the state constitution, the Government and Military Affairs Committee was told.

But a plan holding to county boundaries will not pass federal court scrutiny unless it reduces legislative districts to 45 or less in order to cut population disparity between districts to less than 15%, the lawmakers were informed.

The committee will begin to attempt to draw its own recommendations at an executive session scheduled for Thursday at 1 p.m.

Accorded public hearing were two reapportionment plans: LB924, creating 50 districts crossing county lines, and LB925, establishing 46 districts honoring county boundaries.

Also subjected to hearing was an amended form of LB923, proposing a constitutional amendment which would increase the maximum size of the Unicameral; allow—but restrict—crossing of county lines; protect four-year terms, and permit at-large legislative elections in Lancaster and Douglas Counties.

Sen. Elvin Adamson of Valentine urged that his proposal, which originally called for changing the basis of apportionment from population to number of electors, be amended to provide for apportionment on either basis.

However, the elector alternative could not be used unless or until Nebraska adopts a system of statewide voter registration.

LB923, which would be submitted to a vote of the people in 1966, provides that county lines could be crossed only in cases in which a county is entitled to more than one district. Then, portions of the county could be attached to another county.

The amendment would increase the Unicameral's size from its current 30 to 50 limits to a minimum of 40 and a maximum of 65.

Four-year terms would be protected despite any future reapportionment; at-large elections in counties with more than one district would be permitted only upon authorization by the Legislature.

Sen. George Syas of Omaha urged that the measure be amended to increase the maximum legislative membership to 75 and to require reapportionment after each federal census.

Sen. Dale Payne of Papillion opposed any authorization to cross county lines.

LB924, crossing county boundaries, creates districts ranging in size from 26,933 to 29,627. Twelve counties would be divided, and three of them would be split into three parts.

LB925 would establish districts ranging in population from 26,998 to 35,757, but cut the Unicameral's size from the current 49 to 46 members.

Sen. Ramey Whitney of Chappell said he could support LB924, or LB925 if it were amended to reduce the districts to 45 or less. As written, LB925 contains a maximum disparity of 16 5%, Whitney said.

Such a disparity would not clear the federal court, Whitney declared. Maximum disparity in LB924 is 4.9%, he said.

Syas urged that LB924 be amended to leave Douglas County's 12 projected new districts (drawn for the invalid earlier 1965 reapportionment act) unchanged. LB925, he said, would not meet federal standards.

Sen. George Gerdes of Alliance agreed that it would be "useless" to present the federal courts with a plan containing population disparity of more than 15%.

Sens. Chet Paxton of Thedford, Frank Nelson of O'Neill and Ira Paine of Grand Island all registered opposition to LB924 because of its provisions violating county boundaries.

"County lines are sacred," Orville Norlund of Broken Bow said. LB924, which would split Custer County into three districts, would create three new counties, Norlund argued: "The counties of Confusion, Calamity and Complete Disaster."

Adamson, Nelson and Paxton were joined by Sen. H. C. Crandall of Curtis and Rudolf Kokes of Ord in supporting LB925. Five of the six presented amendments switching counties here and there.

Gerdes said that even LB925 violates the state constitution by knocking out some present four-year terms through reduction in districts from 49 to 46.

Floods Leave Mud Carpet

. . . AS MISSOURI WATERS START RECEDING

Smithville, Mo. (AP)—The roof of a house lay on a bridge alongside a pressure cooker; a bread truck was on its back like a dead insect; two houses blocked a main street intersection; mud was deep on the street, in stores and homes, like a thick, gooey carpet.

That was Smithville, Mo., Wednesday, as floodwaters moved downstream. Left bare was the awesome devastation caused and hidden by more than 15 feet of water in the town of 1,200 Tuesday.

The receding waters yielded two more victims, would-be rescuers who disappeared after helping people trapped in a car Monday night near Holden. The deaths brought the known total to seven in northwest and west-central Missouri.

Eventually the water from all the flooded rivers—the Platte and the Little Platte, the Blackwater, the Fishing, the Crooked, the 102, and the Blue—flows into the Missouri, which had a 7-foot overflow at Lexington and an 8-foot overflow at Waverly.

The Weather Bureau warned that an overflow of the same magnitude is expected Thursday morning at Miami, Mo., and that the crest would produce stages ranging three to six feet above bankful down to the mouth in the next one to four days.

Estimates of the damage in Platte County, where Smithville is located, ranged up to $25 million, but no one could say for sure.

Railroads are completing repairs on their tracks in the area, but some trains still are being rerouted.

No rain is in the forecast and none has fallen since Tuesday morning.

. . . AT KEENTIME DANCES

By JOHN DeFRAIN
Star Staff Writer

Driving through Antelope Park one night last week a frightened man reported hearing a deep, pulsating roar coming from the direction of the Pavilion.

Leaving his car, he crept through the trees and hid for a better view behind the War Memorial. He saw a low, shoebox shaped building emitting a terrible meat grinder-like sound. Scores of young people were rushing toward the Pavilion.

No Monster

The Star assured him that it was not some monster that came back with the Mariner IV pictures, it was only a KeenTime Dance for high-schoolers held on Tuesdays from 8 to 11 p.m.

The noise is terrific. One man swears that he can hear it from his back porch, more than a mile away. Of course this is not true. A low rumble may be heard from three blocks (wiht a train going by).

On entering the Pavilion, a constant explosion of sound pierces the skull and makes the rafters groan.

The air is stifling, for as many as 1,500 teens pack the building as they gyrate and jerk to four guitars and drums.

The kids are hoping to get a bigger, air-conditioned community building built near Woods Pool, but plans appear to have bogged down.

By The Gross

Parking also seems to be a problem. With only 150 spaces, the kids have to come by the gross.

Inside, the guitar players dance, the singer wails until his voice cracks, and the dancers bounce up and down, smiling, laughing, staring, sweating, making the whole building seem to quiver with the beat of this churning mass of humanity.

If you want to know why this type of atmosphere is so appealing, ask the first person who bumps into you (that will be also the first person you see) why he likes KeenTime. The answer will most likely be, "I don't, but there's nowhere else to go!"

Not Bad

Talking to a policeman, you'll find that the kids aren't bad, except for an occasional fight as Officer Eugene Giles, the only patrolman on duty at KeenTime that night, reported.

"I did catch a girl sneaking in on a pass card that a boy handed her through the fence," he said.

But why do they come to the holocaust? Even try to sneak in? One boy came to please his girl friend. The girl said she came "because he likes it."

Jim Rogers, graduate of Lincoln High, said it's just "great."

Anyway, KeenTime's a good place to meet your friends, for "Everybody goes to KeenTime." And with more than 7,000 members, it has to be EVERYBODY!

Measure Ready For Final Vote

. . . APPROVAL EXPECTED

Washington (AP)—A conference committee of the House and Senate agreed Wednesday on terms of a historic bill to provide hospitalization and other medical services for all Americans over 65.

It provides also for higher Social Security pension payments.

Of highest priority to President Johnson and his legislative lieutenants, the bill will be put to the House and then to the Senate for final approval beginning Tuesday. That approval and Johnson's signature are considered a cinch.

This major breakthrough in social legislation will attempt to strike at the burdens of old age in three major ways.

1. Establish a comprehensive hospitalization, nursing home and home nursing program for everyone over 65.

2. Set up a voluntary insurance system providing payment for some doctor and dental surgeon bills.

3. Increase by seven per cent all cash benefits under the already established old age, survivors and disability insurance program.

The increase in benefits is retroactive to last Jan. 1. If the bill becomes law before the end of July, the Social Security Administration plans to mail checks for nearly $1 billion in retroactive increase along with the regular September checks.

Broad Expansion

This is the broadest expansion of the Social Security system since it was established 30 years ago and will bring with it higher Social Security taxes. A worker earning $6,600 or more will pay $277.20 next year and his employer a like amount. This year the tax on each was $174.

Final agreement was reached at a sixth meeting of the conferees. They began last Wednesday the arduous business of resolving the 513 changes the Senate made in the House-passed bill.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., exulted when the conferees work was done: "The many provisions of the bill that provide for the aged, the poor people, the children, the blind and the disabled make me want to cheer."

Senate Liberal

As the bill cleared the House April 8 it carried about $6 billion in benefits. The Senate was more liberal, and when it was done with the bill July 9 it carried about $7.1 billion for America's pensioners.

At the same time, the Senate wrote in a larger tax bite than the House had.

In general, the conferees followed the Senate's course with one especially significant exception: It junked a Senate amendment to allow workers to retire at 60 and receive two-thirds of the benefits that normally would come to them at 65.

Otherwise, the conferees agreed with the Senate that the first $6,600 of income should be subject to Social Security taxes.

And, although Social Security statisticians are still counting up the dollars and cents, they estimate the benefits will approach $7 billion.

A health care program for older Americans was first advanced, on a limited scale, in the Truman administration two decades ago. It ran into charges of socialized medicine and never got off the ground.

These cries were no less strident when the late President John F. Kennedy advanced a broadened program and when Lyndon B. Johnson braced it upon acceding to the presidency. They have largely subsided of late, though, and the House and Senate votes were about 3 to 1 in favor.

Cigarette Tax Hike Readied

. . . ONE CENT

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland said Wednesday he will attempt to attach a rider to pending legislation in order to increase the state cigarette tax by another penny a package.

Holmquist had intended to seek legislative approval to apply the amendment to the Unfair Cigarette Sales Act approved by the Legislature earlier in the day.

Drawn, Ready

Holmquist had his amendment drawn and ready for presentation when he was informed by another senator that a check with Lt. Gov. Philip Sorensen indicated that the lieutenant governor would rule the amendment out of order as not germane to the bill under consideration.

So, Holmquist said he will attempt to find another bill which could legally be amended to hike the cigarette levy.

The Legislature earlier this year boosted the state tax from six to eight cents a package, then earmarked all additional revenue to educational television, recreation development and access roads to recreation areas.

$1.3 to $1.5 Million

Another one-cent boost would raise an additional $1.3 million to $1.5 million a year.

"That could pay for a state trade school," Holmquist noted.

According to the amendment, the increase would become effective immediately upon enactment and approval by the governor.

By The Gross

Parking also seems to be a problem. With only 150 spaces, the kids have to come by the gross.

Inside, the guitar players dance, the singer wails until his voice cracks, and the dancers bounce up and down, smiling, laughing, staring, sweating, making the whole building seem to quiver with the beat of this churning mass of humanity.

If you want to know why this type of atmosphere is so appealing, ask the first person who bumps into you (that will be also the first person you see) why he likes KeenTime. The answer will most likely be, "I don't, but there's nowhere else to go!"

Not Bad

Talking to a policeman, you'll find that the kids aren't bad, except for an occasional fight as Officer Eugene Giles, the only patrolman on duty at KeenTime that night, reported.

"I did catch a girl sneaking in on a pass card that a boy handed her through the fence," he said.

But why do they come to the holocaust? Even try to sneak in? One boy came to please his girl friend. The girl said she came "because he likes it."

Anyway, KeenTime's a good place to meet your friends, for "Everybody goes to KeenTime." And with more than 7,000 members, it has to be EVERYBODY!

Cigarette Tax Hike Readied

. . . ONE CENT

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland said Wednesday he will attempt to attach a rider to pending legislation in order to increase the state cigarette tax by another penny a package.

Holmquist had intended to seek legislative approval to apply the amendment to the Unfair Cigarette Sales Act approved by the Legislature earlier in the day.

Drawn, Ready

Holmquist had his amendment drawn and ready for presentation when he was informed by another senator that a check with Lt. Gov. Philip Sorensen indicated that the lieutenant governor would rule the amendment out of order as not germane to the bill under consideration.

So, Holmquist said he will attempt to find another bill which could legally be amended to hike the cigarette levy.

The Legislature earlier this year boosted the state tax from six to eight cents a package, then earmarked all additional revenue to educational television, recreation development and access roads to recreation areas.

$1.3 to $1.5 Million

Another one-cent boost would raise an additional $1.3 million to $1.5 million a year.

"That could pay for a state trade school," Holmquist noted.

According to the amendment, the increase would become effective immediately upon enactment and approval by the governor.

B52s Bomb Red Jungle Sector

. . . U.S. WEEKLY LOSS HEAVY

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP) — Tactical squadrons stepped up the air war against the Viet Cong Wednesday and 30 B52 jet bombers capped their efforts with a raid at dusk on a Red-held jungle sector 30 miles north-northwest of Saigon

A U.S. military spokesman announced the eight-engine B52s, striking from Guam for the fifth time in less than five weeks, loosed 500 tons of explosives "in a program of continuing harassment and disruption of known areas of Viet Cong activity."

In the war as a whole it was disclosed 28 U.S. servicemen were killed, 100 were wounded and seven were missing or captured last week. The American losses were among the heaviest in any seven-day period of the Vietnamese conflict.

The extent to which these will swell totals in the Pentagon's official weekly summary Thursday remained to be determined. The pentagon covers the periods from Tuesdays through Mondays. Its last report — for the week ended Monday, July 12—snowed 503 Americans dead, 2,720 wounded and 57 missing or prisoners

Briefing officers said South Vietnamese forces suffered 240 killed, 340 wounded and 155 missing or captured in the week, against Viet Cong losses of 419 killed and 28 captured. There was no report on the Viet Cong wounded, usually estimated to total about twice their death roll.

On security grounds, American and Vietnamese authorities no longer announce specific casualties among their forces on a day to day basis, limiting the description of losses in various engagements to light, moderate or heavy.

GOP Told To Exploit Weak LBJ Press

Washington (AP) — A report to congressional Republicans said Wednesday night President Johnson is weak in dealing with the press and they should take advantage of this and make friends with newsmen

A report prepared under the sponsorship of House minority leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan and 11 colleagues told the GOP members it is "suicidal" to view the press as an enemy.

The report, prepared by Bruce C. Ladd Jr., former press secretary for defeated gubernatorial candidate Charles H. Percy of Illinois, said Republicans should be "mindful of the fact that oversensitivity to press coverage produces gray hair and ulcers—nothing more."

The report described as "unenlightened" former president Dwight D. Eisenhower's denunciation of some columnists at the 1964 San Francisco GOP convention. It said Barry Goldwater, the presidential nominee, multiplied tenfold the "errors of judgment" it attributed to former Vice President Richard M. Nixon in 1960.

As a result, the survey relationship with he press was "horrendous" and resulted in the nominee's being "one of the least understood and most frequently misinterpreted candidates ever to seek the presidency."

Nevertheless, Ladd's report said there is a real weakness in what is called President Johnson's "inability to deal effectively with the press," adding:

"There is a tremendous opportunity for Republicans to win friends among newsmen in Washington. The President's compulsive desire to totally control every aspect of the news and of his press relations is bringing suffocation to his staff and disenchantment to the newsmen."

HASTINGS MAN IN B47 SAFE LANDING

Pease Air Force Base, N. H. (UPI)—A giant B47 jet bomber made a safe belly landing on a cushion of foam Wednesday after the four crewmen, including Capt. Ronald Newton. 25, of Hastings, Nebr., struggled in vain for seven hours to lwer a jammed landing gear.

The 200,000 pound six-engine stratojet was refueled in the air four times while the crew tried every trick in the book to drop the wheels into landing position.

"We were too busy to be scared," said the pilot, Capt. Yale R. Davis Jr., 31, of Salina, Kan.

"We tried all emergency procedures but none of them worked.

"I wept into the crawlway to try to move the wheels down and could not do so." The gear was stuck three-quarters of the way down "and wouldn't budge either way," he said.

"We agreed to bail out only as a last resort." Davis told newsmen. Just in case this became necessary, he said, the plane was flown out over the Atlantic Ocean "to get away from the population areas."

Orders finally came from the ground to circle the area to burn off fuel and then make a crash landing on the runway which was coated with a 3,000-foot ribbon of foam.

Lt. Col. James B. Price, 40, an instructor pilot from Waco, Tex., was at the controls when the huge plane made a pass over the field and then touched down 200 yards short of the foam with two drag chutes billowing behind to slow its speed.

Sparks sprayed the plane and smoke caused by friction swirled into the air as the jet slid onto the cushion of foam. There was no explosion or fire.

Violence Erupts Against New Greek Government

The clash broke out in the streets of the capital despite earlier police efforts to keep the demonstrations non-violent. They had handled the students with kid gloves to prevent a fight.

The riot erupted even as the new premier, put in office by young King Constantine following the sudden dismissal of George Papandreou, went on radio to warn the people that "the government has both the decisiveness and strength to strike against any bad will."

Answering Charges

Athanassiadis-Novas' broadcast "address to the people" was aimed at answering charges leveled against him by Papandreou.

Backed King

Athanassiadis-Novas has set the end of the month to seek parliamentary approval for his cabinet, but he will need the support of right wing and left wing opposition groups to win.

Papandreou still firmly held 149 backers in the Center Union Front, to which both he and Athanassiadis-Novas belong. The ousted premier made a triumphant political march into Athens Monday, and has stirred strong emotional support among the people.

Russian Talk Is Finished By Harriman

Moscow (AP)— W. Averell Harriman, President Johnson's roving ambassdor, concluded Wednesday a two-part discussion with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin on world problems and Soviet-American relations.

After the first meeting, lasting three hours last Thursday, he said he had reported "some significant information" to President Johnson.

Informed sources said the talks — the highest-level contact between the two governments since Nikita S. Khrushchev was ousted in October—were intended to make sure each side understood the other in the Viet Nam war and other issues. Neither appeared to have changed any attitudes as a result.

The informants said Johnson wants the Russians to understand U.S. intentions in Vit Nam and on other world problems.

Harriman said on arrival with his wife that he had come on vacation. But the meetings with Kosygin were arranged in advance at U.S. request.

Asked if he had now finished his business here, Harriman said, "Yes." "And your vacation?" he smiled. "Yes."

Harriman said he plans to fly Thursday to Brussels, Belgium. He will have talks with several West European leaders before ending the "vacation."

Harriman was accompanied at both meetings with Kosygin by the U.S. ambassador in Moscow, Foy D. Kohler, and by embassy Second Secretary Marshall Brement, a Soviet-Chinese affairs expert. Harriman was the U.S. ambassador here in 1943-46.

New Health Insurance Will Offer Basic, Optional Plans

Editor's note — The most extensive changes in the Social Security system since its establishment 30 years ago are embodied in the sweeping bill now nearing final action by Congress. Details of the changes, including the comprehensive health care program for the elderly, are spelled out in a series of articles, the first of which follows.

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer

Washington (AP)—If you are 65 or older, you are an immediate beneficiary of what Congress considers the greatest contribution in 30 years to security in old age.

Bigger monthly pension checks to senior Americans and sharply higher payroll taxes to younger citizens are in prospect.

And a year from now, if you are among the 18 million in the older group, it can allay what may be your foremost concern—the fear that a long or critical illness may wipe out your savings, your home, and your personal independence.

President Johnson soon will sign into law a huge bundle of amendments to the Social Security Act of 1935, assuming neither House nor Senate balks at the compromises reached by their conferees Wednesday.

The health insurance is of two types, both effective July 1, 1966. The first is a basic hospital plan; after Jan. 1, 1967, it also will include nursing home care. The second is an optional medical plan; it will pay most of your doctor bills, but if you want it, you must make monthly payment

The hospital plan is yours to use automatically, whether or not you have worked under Social Security, whether or not you are now receiving a Social Security pension.

You are covered, in fact, even if you are ineligible for other Social Security benefits because you still work and earn a good income. The reason is this: Your illness may end your earning career; your retirement may begin the day you enter the hospital.

So you qualify simply by becoming 65.

Insurance Card

You will get your "health insurance card" by mail from the Social Security Administration, if you are among the more than 16 million already receiving monthly benefit checks. It may come in September, or soon after.

Those who are not now receiving Social Security payments will have ample notice of how and when to get a card. A major information effort is planned.

If you miss those notices, don't worry. You will get the benefits if and when you enter a hospital.

Most people of 65 and over are expected to drop their private hospital policies when the government plan goes into effect. But the Social Security Administration issues

First: The basic plan covers only hospital services rendered after next July 1, and nursing home services starting six months later.

So: Don't drop your private insurance yet. And don't assume now that you will want to cancel it completely. Your insurance company may offer you a worthwhile supplemental plan providing benefits not included in the government insurance.

Second: The basic hospital plan does not pay any doctor bills.

The services of physicians and surgeons are covered by a separate section of the new law—the medical insurance program. The choice of taking it is up to you: Do you want to pay $3 a month for insurance which covers a substantial part of your doctor bills?

If the cost is a deterrent, keep this in mind: Your monthly Social Security benefit is being increased — this year, not next—by more than enough to cover the $3 charge.

There will be a sign-up period for the voluntary doctor-bill plan, probably starting in September and running through next March.

Meantime, here's how the basic hospital plan will work—

Assume that you and your wife are both over 65. You have retired, receive Social Security payments, and have only modest savings.

Without warning a heart attack strikes you down. You wind up in a hospital for an eight-week stay. The cost, in a semiprivate room, is $27 a day. For 56 days, it adds up to $1,512.

Your savings account would be seriously hit by that cost. But all of it is covered by the hospital plan except the first $40. The $40 is a "deductible" paid by you.

In each spell of illness requiring hospitalization under the new coverage, you pay the first $40 and the insurance covers the rest.

The plan entitles you to 60 hospital days. If your recovery had taken longer than that, you could have up to 30 more days, in addition to the 60—but with you paying $10 of the cost of each additional day.

Assume that you need nursing care and you stay in the nursing home for 35 days in accommodations cost $11 a day. The law provides for up to 100 days, but you must pay $5 of the cost for each day after 20.

The entire nursing home cost of your recuperation is $385. Twenty days are on the government. Your share of the other 15 days is $55; that is all you pay.

This is how you come out of your illness financially:

Hospital, $1,512, of which you pay $40

Nursing home, $385, of which you pay $55.

Cost overall, $1,897. Cost to you, $115.

In both the hospital and the nursing home, the government payments cover the cost of drugs, supplies and services customarily furnished.

In addition, you are entitled to as many as 100 visits in your home by nurses or other health workers—but not by doctors—during the first year following your discharge.

Survey On Water, Land Resources Is Announced

. . . $100,000 STUDY DISCLOSED FOR STATE

The executive secretary of the State Soil and Water Conservation Commission Wednesday said the commission will launch a statewide survey of Nebraska's water and land resources this year.

Warren D. Fairchild said the study, which will cost more than $100,000, will have a "tremendous impact" on the future economic development of the state by providing information on which to base statewide resources planning.

"The study will enable us to meet the future needs that We've placed on our water and land resources," said Fairchild. "It will cover all land and water in the state."

He said findings of the study will be used to plan development of resources for food, fiber and recreation purposes. "Nebraska's greatest resources are people, land and water, and this study will enable us to take the fullest advantage of all three," he said.

Funds Pending

He said the necessary funds for the project are included in the commission's 1965-67 budget allocation given tentative approval by the Legislature, and he said federal funds may also be available.

Congress has completed work on legislation setting up a giant water project planning program in the nation, including a provision for federal grants of $5 million annually for 10 years to states for use in planning projects aimed at full development and conservation of water and related resources. These funds must be matched, dollar-for-dollar, by the states.

Fairchild said Nebraska probably will receive between $50,000 and $90,000 under the federal program, and he hoped Congress would allocate the funds in time to allow states to take advantage of them this fiscal year.

Fairchild speculated that other state agencies, particularly the Department of Water Resources and the Conservation Survey Department of the University of Nebraska, may participate in the study.

He said the commission will hire a special technical staff to direct the study; the first of its kind in Nebraska.

Court Okays Dismissal Of Neff's Suit

St. Louis, Mo. (AP)—The U.S. Court of Appeals in St. Louis upheld Wednesday dismissal of a suit by Joseph A. Neff of New York for a broker's commission he claimed as a result of sale of the Omaha, Neb., World Herald.

The newspaper was sold to Peter Kiewit Sons' Co. of Omaha, one of the world's largest contracting firms. Prior to the sale, stockholders of the paper had negotiated with publisher S. I. Newhouse.

Neff's suit had earlier been dismissed by U.S. Dist. Judge Richard A. Robinson at Omaha on grounds that Neff, a New York business broker, had no valid claim for "service rendered to the purchaser of the newspaper."

Neff had acted as an intermediary in negotiations for an agreement on purchase of the World Herald's assets by Newhouse.

While these negotiations were in progress, Kiewit learned of them and made his offer for the paper.

It was accepted by stockholders in October of 1962 in preference to the Newhouse offer.

But the 45-page appeals court opinion held that Neff's agreement was with Newhouse and that the stockholders of the World Herald had no obligation to Neff.

Chunks Of Hillsides At Brownville Give Way After Excessive Rainfall

By JOHN LEE
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Brownville — When Andy Mayberry says his business is slipping, he's not spoofing.

The Continental Grain Co., which Mayberry manages, lost a grain-loading rig to the heavy rains.

The elevator operator estimated as much as eight inches may have fallen Sunday night, a part of the storm that spread flood waters over many portions of northwest Missouri. Another three inches added to the problem Monday night.

Mayberry said the ground started cracking loose on the hillside next to the elevator on Monday. The facility is situated on top of a hill just a few feet back from the edge of the steep river bank. He estimated damage near $40,000.

With them went most of a 300-foot conveyor system through which grain flowed from the elevator to barges docked in the river below. The belt ran inside a 30-inch steel tube, held up by a steel framework and two towers set on concrete.

"It went down real slow, kind of creeping," said Mayberry. "There was nothing to do but sit and watch it."

The upper tower went first, buckling the tube and carrying the lower tower along. It all came to rest on top of a loaded barge and across the CB&Q tracks carved out of the hill.

The larger tower, situated next to the water with no protection, the manager said, "was standing on 14 feet of cement set about 12 to 14 feet in the ground. It pulled the cement right out of the ground."

Small cracks are visible as close as six feet from the office of the 700,000-bushel elevator. Larger ones have opened further out on the bank.

Plastic has been spread to prevent further washing.

"It hasn't moved since Tuesday morning," Mayberry assured. "Our biggest worry is if we get more rain."

The Roberts Construction Co. of Sabetha, Kan., from which the grain company leases the land, is working to solve the crumbling problem. Mayberry said pilings would probably have to be driven to hold the bank.

The conveyor rig, which normally whisks 5,000 bushels of grain an hour into barges, will be out of commission for at least a month, he noted.

Other slides had also been reported along the railroad line from Lincoln to Brownville and two other communities to the south. Wind with Sunday's storm also caused some damage to the elevator.

Highways Reopened Out West

Both Highways 71 and 88 in the Harrisburg area of western Nebraska were reopened Wednesday following heavy Tuesday night rains.

Pumpkin Creek in the area went on a rampage, closing the highways, forcing some residents to leave their homes and washing out a trout hatchery.

As the waters rushed toward the North Platte River, Highways 71 and 88 were closed and a 10-foot dike at the Lost Park night club 12 miles south of Gering was topped.

Observers at the club estimated the creek was 15 to 20 feet above normal. It was at the club that the hatchery was washed out.

On Highway 71, about 14 miles south of Gering the water was said to be three to five feet deep over the road for a time.

Callan Finds Himself In Uncomfortable Spot

Washington (UPI) — Rep. Clair Callan, D-Neb., Wednesday was impaled on the horns of a dilemma, and he was frank to say his position was uncomfortable.

On the one hand was the proposed repeal of section 14B of the labor law. This section permits states to enact so-called "right to work" laws which forbid management-union agreements to make union membership a requirement for job eligibility.

Debate Scheduled

Enactment of the repeal bill would nullify the right-to-work laws in 19 states, and prohibit others from adopting the proviso. The House is scheduled to begin debate on the provision. The House is the Education and Labor Committee, Monday.

On the other hand was the farm bill, with its provision of subsidies and programs to help farmers. This measure is scheduled for House debate when and if the repeal of 14B is approved.

"Although these two bills may not be philosophically or legislatively connected, it appers they are politically," Callan said in an interview.

"I've written people back home the only thing that would make me vote for repeal of 14B would be if not to do so would jeapordize the farm bill."

According to reports circulating in Congress, if 14B is not repealed there will be no farm bill this year.

Callan said provisions of the right-to-work law are contained in Nebraska's constitution. The state Legislature recently adopted by a 34-6 vote a resolution urging Congress not to repeal 14B.

"I'm confident my constituents don't want repeal," Callan said.

But he also was unhappily confident that Nebraska would suffer a bruising economic blow if Congress fails to enact a farm bill this year.

"I'm in a real quandry," he said. "I'm going to stay uncommitted until the vote comes up."

$50,000 Lawsuit Filed Against Lincoln Driver

Omaha (AP) — Mrs. L. C. Strough of Omaha, mother of a 16-year-old Omaha boy killed in a two-car collision near Lincoln July 21, 1963, has filed a $50,000 lawsuit in District Court against Duane L. Poser, 29, of Lincoln.

Poser was the driver of one of two cars involved in a collision east of the Havelock overpass on U.S. 6.

The suit said Mrs. Strough's son was a passenger in a car driven by Thomas Weinfurtner, 17, of Omaha, who also was killed.

Senate Unit OKs Garrison Start

Washington (AP)—North Dakota's Garrison diversion project was approved by the Senate Interior Committee.

The committee acted on a bill which would authorize a start on the $207 million Missouri River project including irrigation of about 250,000 acres.

Omaha (AP) — Repeal of Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act is opposed by the National Livestock Feeders Association, president Robert H. Ray of Norfolk said.

Section 14B prohibits closed shop contracts in states having so-called right-to-work laws. Nebraska has such a law.

Repeal of the section is sought by the Johnson administration. Ray said repeal would be a "step toward compulsory union membership."

He added . . . "compulsory membership could give union leaders undue power and authority to disrupt the flow of food, causing serious hardship on producers of perishable foods as well as consumers."

Ex-Louisville Mayor Is Dead

Services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at the First Methodist Church, with Masonic services at Riverview Cemetery.

Mr. McGrew was a native of Louisville. He retired 14 years ago after association with the former Nebraska Power Co. and the Omaha Public Power District for 38 years.

Survivors include his wife, Grace; three daughters, Mrs. Miriam Doty of Louisville, Mrs. Katherine McGregor of Omaha and Mrs. Jo Ann Alfrey of Lincoln; and one son, W. S. Jr., Louisville.

Debate Scheduled

Enactment of the repeal bill would nullify the right-to-work laws in 19 states, and prohibit others from adopting the proviso. The House is scheduled to begin debate on the provision. The House is the Education and Labor Committee, Monday.

On the other hand was the farm bill, with its provision of subsidies and programs to help farmers. This measure is scheduled for House debate when and if the repeal of 14B is approved.

"Although these two bills may not be philosophically or legislatively connected, it appers they are politically," Callan said in an interview.

"I've written people back home the only thing that would make me vote for repeal of 14B would be if not to do so would jeapordize the farm bill."

According to reports circulating in Congress, if 14B is not repealed there will be no farm bill this year.

Callan said provisions of the right-to-work law are contained in Nebraska's constitution. The state Legislature recently adopted by a 34-6 vote a resolution urging Congress not to repeal 14B.

"I'm confident my constituents don't want repeal," Callan said.

But he also was unhappily confident that Nebraska would suffer a bruising economic blow if Congress fails to enact a farm bill this year.

"I'm in a real quandry," he said. "I'm going to stay uncommitted until the vote comes up."

$50,000 Lawsuit Filed Against Lincoln Driver

Omaha (AP) — Mrs. L. C. Strough of Omaha, mother of a 16-year-old Omaha boy killed in a two-car collision near Lincoln July 21, 1963, has filed a $50,000 lawsuit in District Court against Duane L. Poser, 29, of Lincoln.

Poser was the driver of one of two cars involved in a collision east of the Havelock overpass on U.S. 6.

The suit said Mrs. Strough's son was a passenger in a car driven by Thomas Weinfurtner, 17, of Omaha, who also was killed.

Senate Unit OKs Garrison Start

Washington (AP)—North Dakota's Garrison diversion project was approved by the Senate Interior Committee.

The committee acted on a bill which would authorize a start on the $207 million Missouri River project including irrigation of about 250,000 acres.

Omaha (AP) — Repeal of Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act is opposed by the National Livestock Feeders Association, president Robert H. Ray of Norfolk said.

Section 14B prohibits closed shop contracts in states having so-called right-to-work laws. Nebraska has such a law.

Repeal of the section is sought by the Johnson administration. Ray said repeal would be a "step toward compulsory union membership."

He added . . . "compulsory membership could give union leaders undue power and authority to disrupt the flow of food, causing serious hardship on producers of perishable foods as well as consumers."

Ex-Louisville Mayor Is Dead

Services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at the First Methodist Church, with Masonic services at Riverview Cemetery.

Mr. McGrew was a native of Louisville. He retired 14 years ago after association with the former Nebraska Power Co. and the Omaha Public Power District for 38 years.

Survivors include his wife, Grace; three daughters, Mrs. Miriam Doty of Louisville, Mrs. Katherine McGregor of Omaha and Mrs. Jo Ann Alfrey of Lincoln; and one son, W. S. Jr., Louisville.

Things Get Complicated

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

You could have quite a hassle with yourself trying to figure all the ins and outs of the current tax situation. A new ingredient has been added to the income tax controversy with first round legislative approval of a measure that would remove the exemptions that now apply to domestic and foreign domesticated stock. As the situation now stands, stock held in such companies is tax exempt.

The bill now pending in the Legislature would subject such stock to the four-mill tax levy now applied to stock in foreign corporations. Thus, if you now own stock worth $1,000 on the market, you would pay $4 tax on it. At first glance that doesn't seem like a lot of tax but first glances can be deceiving. If it doesn't seem like much tax, it is probably because you are not a very big stock holder of any kind. If I had $1,000 in stock, you might say, I would be more than happy to pay $4 tax on it. To get the true picture, you have to think a little bigger than $1,000.

Matter Of Perspective

Think, for instance, in terms of Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff. One thing you have to say about Carpenter, he is not afraid to say what he thinks and adds a lot of spice to any situation in which he is involved. He is pushing the proposed bill to tax domestic and foreign domesticated stock.

The bill would become effective, if passed, only if the state income tax is defeated in a referendum election. Carpenter is, also, a foe of the income tax bill. The income tax is a flat rate tax that, for practical purposes, can be pegged at the moment to a rate of approximately 2 percent.

Carpenter said in the Legislature that the stock tax bill will provide that "those who advocate a referendum drive to kill the income tax—if successful—will get the intangible tax." They will find, he said, that "they are not allowed to go scot-free forever. They're never for anything—except to load more on the fellow who is already paying too much." And in another breath just a few weeks ago, Carpenter was pledging his talents and efforts to a leadership role in the petition movement to cut down the income tax. Thus, he would seem to be against the income tax and for punishing himself for being so, along with any and all others who crawl in the boat with him. Well, we have never pretended to be able to understand Carpenter and we can at least be consistent in that.

The Scottsbluff senator offers what seems to be one paradox after another, one incongruity heaped upon another. He noted that the stock tax bill would cost him on his $400,000 in stock held in Terry Carpenter, Inc., a total of $1,600 a year. He is right and that gives you a little better idea of the impact of the bill. Four dollars isn't much tax but $1,600 is a lot of tax. And Carpenter isn't the most wealthy man in Nebraska. Most citizens would be surprised, no doubt, if they knew just how many people there are who are in the half a million dollars stock ownership class and above. They don't know, of course, because such owners would never admit, as Carpenter does, what they have or own. If there was any purpose in it, Carpenter would not hesitate for a minute to divulge his entire personal financial situation. In fact, if memory serves us right he has offered to do this in the past.

Why is Carpenter in what seems to be such a contradictory position? It is just a guess, of course, but the truth might be that he is torn between a real concern for the poor or little man and his contempt for those with money and influence. He is against the income tax because it is not graduated enough. That is, it does not apply a higher rate of tax against higher incomes and a lower rate against lower incomes.

On the other hand, the income tax is still a big bite out of high incomes, a bigger bite than those in that group would prefer but just not big enough to satisfy Carpenter. Either tax would cost Carpenter a good chunk of money but the senator is an exception to the claim made by some that "everyone" looks to their own personal protection in tax matters. Again, the fact is that there are more exceptions to that claim than most people might realize.

Difference Is Substantial

If they, too, own $400,000 in stock, it could bring them an annual return of say $24,000. With an income tax, they would pay $480 on that return. With the stock tax, they would pay the $1,600. Thus, if they vote against the income tax they would be voting themselves another $1,120 in taxes a year. And it isn't just their vote that counts, but their financial support and influence behind repeal of the income tax.

And if the stock tax idea puts the big money people in a hard bind, a bind they don't like, what does that suggest? It would seem to suggest that the income tax must be a little better deal for the so-called little man than some would have us believe.

'Operation Head Start'

On Growing Up

The experience of U.S. arms and statecraft in Viet Nam has been a sobering experience and may be a piece of timely education.

It recalls the experience of powerful Britain trying to put down our own war for independence. Our small and semi-civilian force run by non professional generals, seldom engaging in a head to head encounter, finally won its point by "fighting the wrong way." And we recall that we had difficulty for years, ourselves, with the semi-civilized Indian tribes which were fighting their way, not ours, to keep hold of their homeland.

The Vietnamese trouble is even more complicated. Unquestionably we have the armament, the sophistication and the numerical power to handle that little country rather quickly. But when a land is thousands of miles away and when its patriots and enemy look, act and live alike, and live in a country of swamps and jungles and all consider us as intruders, the problem of making war takes on great dimensions.

No doubt we are the most powerful Western nation, the shield of the free way of life. But the world is very large and full of variety. No nation in history has been able to bring it to heel. This is something we should think about. It is better we learn this in a small struggle than to be taught in a big one.

It is also good to learn that as a nation attains great power it loses allies—a form of fear, we suppose. The more we strive to do what we believe is our duty, the more our former friends take flight.

These are new experiences for the United States because our history is not of great length and we are running into facts for the first time.

The Eminent Domain Question

The legislature overrode Sen. Batchelder, Omaha, and, over his objections, advanced LB554 which provides for the State Game Commission to exercise the right of condemnation over various parcels of land totalling 4,139 acres.

Batchelder asserted in effect that the right of eminent domain should be allowed only where the procedure is necessary because of obscure ownership or title, but should not be used to force an unwilling owner to sell.

The land in question are those pieces needed to complete the state's 10 year park program. Since the Game Commission has but a limited right of exercise of condemnation it was required to seek legislative permission in this instance.

The right of condemnation, just as the propriety of levying taxes, goes back to the original concept that all land belongs to the king and though he may wish to turn the land over to individuals he does it conditionally. In our country the state replaces the king. Senator Batchelder would define new limitations to replace these ancient ones. If he prevailed this nation would never have had a railroad. Many towns could not have conducted a water supply to its citizens if one property owner enroute said no. No dams could be built. Almost nothing could be done.

The issue in LB554 is not one that involves eminent domain. Rather it is one that involves the good sense of the park program. It would have been better to have argued it out on the basis of that.

The legislature is not to be criticized for lending the means to the State Game Commission to complete a program the legislature has approved. And Sen. Batchelder should read up on the origins of the law on real property.

A Really Big Customer

One need only look at the power supply situation in connection with the proton accelerator laboratory proposed for Mead to realize what a fantastic development this would be for Nebraska. It has been reported that the Atomic Energy Commission has been offered a power rate of five mills or less for location of the plant at Mead.

The plant would be serviced, probably, by Omaha Public Power District which says its rate would be closer to 5.5 mills. But even at 5.5 mills, the rate is well under what most power can be purchased at for wholesale, much less the normal retail rate even in the commercial rate structure. OPPD claims it will cover all its costs and a small return on its investment if it services the proposed laboratory.

It would take expert analysis to challenge the OPPD claim but a 5.5 mill rate, much less 5 mills or less, would certainly seem to be a subsidy rate. While subsidizing of industry through power rates would not be uncommon for Omaha, it is a practice that ought to be frowned upon. It is a temptation that Lincoln will have to guard against when, as is expected, it assumes the entire retail power operation in the city.

But if industry is going to get a good deal on power rates, the proton accelerator is the place to do it. The odds are surely against Nebraska getting this federal research facility but if it did happen it would be about the biggest single thing to ever hit this state. It will use more power by itself than is used by the entire city of Lincoln and would constitute on its own a real population explosion for Nebraska.

Why Harriman Went To Moscow

WASHINGTON — The public doesn't know it, but the Moscow mission of Special Ambassador Averell Harriman really got started around a swimming pool in Georgetown.

About three years ago, the ex-governor of New York purchased the colonial Georgetown home of William Scranton, now governor of Pennsylvania, and on hot summer evenings he invites his friends for a swim in his garden pool.

Early this month, Harriman had two guests — Dick Goodwin of the White House staff and Anatoly Dobrynin, Soviet ambassador in Washington. The latter has been in the United States on three different missions, twice in Washington, once attached to the U.N. in New York. He knows this country well, has tried to improve USA-USSR relations and is trusted by the State Department as a man who tells the truth.

During the course of the swim, Ambassador Dobrynin engaged in a very frank conversation with Harriman and White House Aide Goodwin. He made it clear that the Soviet government is ready to go to war against the United States if pushed too far in North Viet Nam.

He explained that the Soviet Union has its alliances in the socialist world, just as the United States has its alliances with NATO in the capitalist world; and that just as we are pledged to go to war to support our allies, so Russia is pledged to go to war to support its allies.

☆ ☆ ☆

He made it clear that one of these allies is China and that, even though Moscow and Peking have not been getting along well, Moscow would be obligated to go to war to defend China if the United States engaged in a nuclear attack. The ambassador didn't say so, but it seemed clear that he had in mind the published reports that the Air Force high command wants to bomb the Chinese nuclear installations to prevent, or at least retard, the development of China as an atomic power.

Ambassador Dobrynin's warning was delivered not in belligerent tones, but rather sorrowfully as a friend. As such it was more effective.

Later, Gov. Harriman volunteered to go to Moscow, on vacation, to make himself available to Premier Kosygin for a full and frank discussion of the collision course on which the United States and the Soviet seem to be heading over Viet Nam. The State Department concurred.

Among the things Harriman told Kosygin was that President Johnson has no idea of escalating the war, has been careful to instruct U.S. bombers to hit at military targets, has no intention of bombing Hanoi, and is ready to negotiate for peace at any time.

Independence Declaration Exists In Three Versions

WASHINGTON — We may "hold these truths to be self-evident," but did you know that there is no such thing as an official version of the Declaration of Independence?

Although it is among the most sublime and frequently quoted documents in the world, neither the Supreme Court, the Congress, the U.S. Archivist nor the Librarian of Congress is able to say which of three differing versions is the legally correct one.

Brant Coopersmith, an official of the American Jewish Committee, was making a speech on civil rights in which he quoted from the Declaration of Independence: ". . . that they are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights . . ."

A woman in the audience interrupted to say that the correct quote was "inalienable," but Coopersmith advised her to re-read the declaration. The following week she mailed him a photograph of the carving on the Jefferson memorial. It did indeed read "inalienable rights."

Puzzled, Coopersmith checked with Interior Secretary Stewart Udall to see why a national monument under Interior's jurisdiction misquotes the declaration. Udall agreed that there is an "inconsistency," but said the memorial uses the Jeffersonian draft of the declaration, rather than the final one passed by the Continental Congress.

Coopersmith re-read Jefferson's draft and noted that the monument carving was faithful neither to that nor to the declaration, because it includes the words: "and for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine providence we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor." The Continental Congress had added those noble words to Jefferson's draft.

Seeking enlightenment Coopersmith wrote to Dr. Julian P. Boyd of Princeton University, a recognized Jeffersonian authority who edited the Jefferson papers and was president of the American Historical Society; and to L. Quincy Mumford, the Librarian of Congress. He learned that besides Jefferson's there are three versions of the declaration: the rough draft printed in the Journal of Congress, the corrected draft which Congress adopted, and the engrossed parchment which the founding fathers signed. All are official in character, but there are slight variations in text and innumerable differences in capitalization and punctuation.

Further sleuthing by Coopersmith disclosed the reason for the discrepancies in the carved panel at the Jefferson memorial. The commission responsible for its design selected quotes from the declaration as originally drawn by Jefferson. When it was sent to the White House for final approval President Franklin D. Roosevelt added the last sentence from the declaration, although Jefferson had not authored it.

This poses two questions: should Congress now pass a resolution designating an official version of this great document? And should the lettering on the Jefferson memorial be altered to conform either to the Jefferson draft, or to the Declaration?

There's already enough confusion in Washington, without further confusing the millions of tourists who visit the memorial each year.

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: What about an aneurysm on the leg directly behind the knee? Is an operation necessary? Is it dangerous to just let it go? What results can one expect? —MRS. W.H.

Molner

Let's discuss aneurysms in general, not just those behind the knee.

An aneurysm is a weak place in a blood vessel. If you had a bulgy place in a tire on your car, you wouldn't "just let it go." You would know that it might not be causing any noticeable difference in the way the car ran, but you'd know that if the bulgy place ruptured (a blowout, that is) it would give you a flat tire, might ruin the tire altogether, and could, in some circumstances, cause a bad accident.

So consider an aneurysm in exactly the same way.

There are different types of aneurysms, and most of the differences are medically technical and you wouldn't be interested in them. But there's one type, a so-called "dissecting aneurysm," which you should know about. In it, the weak spot develops between the inner and outer layers of the blood vessel. Gradually the pressure pushes the gap along between these layers, so the weakened area becomes bigger and bigger. This can continue for quite a long time. Sometimes.

What if the aneurysm finally bursts? Blood escapes and seeps through the surrounding tissues. The amount of pain varies, from none to quite a lot, depending on the location and other circumstances. So does the danger. But at best it is a serious condition, and in some cases it can be permanently disabling or even fatal.

If an aneurysm bursts in the brain, we have a "stroke." That's an example which is somewhat gloomy, in that there is scant if any chance of finding it in advance, and after it happens, the outlook depends on whether the "blowout" has been mild or severe. But you see the point.

If the aneurysm exists high in the chest, in the all-important artery (the aorta) leading from the heart, there is the added risk that the bulging may put pressure on other structures, and cause trouble and discomfort. This, however, is not an unmixed evil. It is also a warning that trouble is developing and ought to be corrected.

As to the area behind the knee, that is the popliteal artery, a large one, running through soft tissues and hence not strongly supported.

It is not by any means simple to correct such a weak place, but it has been done many times, by removing the affected section and replacing it with tubing made of woven plastic. Living tissue grows into the "weave" of the fabric, and what was weak becomes strong.

Whether such surgery is feasible in any given case depends on so many technical factors that I can't discuss them here. But if your doctor recommends surgery, say yes. Refuse, and you have to take your chances on losing the use of the leg, or formation of clots which may later stray and cause serious consequences elsewhere, as in the heart, lung, brain or kidneys.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is myopia? Can a girl having this wear contact lenses? When will the progress of the myopia stop? —J.K.

Myopia is near-sightedness. Yes, contact lenses can be worn. Whether the myopia progresses or stops is not predictable, but in any event vision can be corrected with glasses of conventional or contact types.

Dear Dr. Molner: After blood tests, the doctor says my husband has infectious mononucleosis. He is 38. There is no cure, apparently. Does it go away? —MRS. S.V.

You are right: There is no cure for "mono." But it is a self-limiting disease, meaning that it runs its course and stops.

The important part of treatment is to see that no complications develop; to guard against a relapse; and to ease such symptoms as become annoying. The chief complication involves the liver.

It is mainly a disease of older teen-agers and young adults, but I've known of cases in people in their 40's, and other cases in rather young children.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain why my joints creak. I have been told that it is due to a vitamin deficiency. I don't understand how this could be since I take vitamin pills regularly.—MRS. R.M.

Creaky joints are not a result of vitamin deficiency.

Rather, this is a mechanical problem. The cartilage may be thinned, or the edges of the bones may be thickened so they rub against each other slightly. Or in some cases a creak can be due to a tendon riding over a bony prominence.

The trouble is most likely to occur in the knees, neck and elbows.

It's the result of wear and tear on the joints, or mild arthritis.

Dear Dr. Molner: Our daughter is constantly drinking soft drinks. She claims she averages six to eight a day, but we feel she loses count of them for we have seen her drink two or three even before breakfast, and she gets up at night to drink them, too. This has been going on for several years. What risk is involved? —MRS. B.B.

Probably the most important risk is that these soft drinks (unless they are sugarless) contain a lot of calories. This can interfere with appetite for normal foods, hence possible lack of enough protein, vitamins and roughage. Or the extra calories (in the soft drinks) can bring on overweight. The carbonation, when drinking such quantities, can cause "gassy" stomach. And there is reason to believe that such constant presence of sugary liquid in the mouth encourages cavities.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner answers readers' questions in his column whenever possible.

Viet Nam's Lesson

Lincoln, Neb.

How is the average American supposed to face up to our involvement in the East Asia war.

According to the reports of the Wall Street Journal of July 15, "Doubts arise that United States can move fast enough to blunt the Red drive," it would seem that a change in tactics is the only way out of the crisis in which we have been involved by our leadership.

It is hard to ask this, but, if the efforts that have been made so far have produced no lasting results, will they ever?

As the U.S. forces have been checked at all points with only a minor enemy, what will be the results if our prestige goes down and the major forces of opposition combine their armies for an attack which could just as well be at some other vital or weak point instead of Viet Nam?

Americans are living in a make-believe world, and until we realize that high living and a devil-may-care attitude is okay for those who live for today only, it will never assure any future for our country.

State Malignancy

Lincoln, Neb.

We could say, "Lord forgive them for they know not what they do" in the case of those who advocate retention of 14(b) and state "Right To Work" (for peanuts) laws; but this simply is not the case — they know exactly what they do. This applies to the "Excess Profits Sweatshoppers" and all politicians who know where labor is at election time but only pays attention to Chambers of Commerce, Farm Bureau Federations, Sweatshoppers and lopsided newspapers between elections.

The ridiculous joke of our time is "compulsory dues to union bosses" as an argument for so called right to work laws — "Everyone should have a freedom of choice." George W. Norris and other statesmen would have hit this false image hard and would have told the people the truth. Union people didn't dig very deep for union dues; they get it from the added fruits of their productivity through collective bargaining.

Three cents per hour will more than pay most union dues. If union wages average only $2.50 per hour and sweatshop pay average $1.50 (about average for Nebraska) then the "freedom of choice" dues are actually $176 per month — my dues are $5 and my increase in productivity has more than tripled my increase in pay over the years.

A freedom of choice sweatshop with 800 employes and a net profit of $30,000,000 after taxes that underpays its employes by about $1 per hour will have to cut its profit to a mere $28,336,000 per year. But by paying sweatshop rates for its production it is beating the community and state out of the equivalent of another industry of about 300 employes by the adverse effect of multiplying loss of purchasing power.

Is it any wonder we are down to three congressmen and headed for two by using this malignant thinking?

Hastings Hospital

Hastings, Neb.

State Institutions Director George Morris should not become disturbed by the efforts of Dr. Finn Lunde, superintendent of the Hastings State Hospital, to make Mr. Morris the goat for Dr. Finn Lunde's failures and inefficiency as superintendent. Dr. Finn Lunde is running true to form, because he like others in his position have developed a peculiar characteristic of putting their failures upon someone else.

Consequently, the name of Dr. Finn Lunde should be added to the long list of names of former superintendents of the Hastings State Hospital, and other state mental hospitals throughout America, who spend much time tramping from one mental hospital to another because they cannot support themselves so lavishly in private practice as they are supported by the taxpayers.

He is right and that gives you a little better idea of the impact of the bill. Four dollars isn't much tax but $1,600 is a lot of tax. And Carpenter isn't the most wealthy man in Nebraska. Most citizens would be surprised, no doubt, if they knew just how many people there are who are in the half a million dollars stock ownership class and above. They don't know, of course, because such owners would never admit, as Carpenter does, what they have or own. If there was any purpose in it, Carpenter would not hesitate for a minute to divulge his entire personal financial situation. In fact, if memory serves us right he has offered to do this in the past.

Why is Carpenter in what seems to be such a contradictory position? It is just a guess, of course, but the truth might be that he is torn between a real concern for the poor or little man and his contempt for those with money and influence. He is against the income tax because it is not graduated enough. That is, it does not apply a higher rate of tax against higher incomes and a lower rate against lower incomes.

On the other hand, the income tax is still a big bite out of high incomes, a bigger bite than those in that group would prefer but just not big enough to satisfy Carpenter. Either tax would cost Carpenter a good chunk of money but the senator is an exception to the claim made by some that "everyone" looks to their own personal protection in tax matters. Again, the fact is that there are more exceptions to that claim than most people might realize.

For those who do look only at their own pocketbook, the stock tax bill is a toughie. If they, too, own $400,000 in stock, it could bring them an annual return of say $24,000. With an income tax, they would pay $480 on that return. With the stock tax, they would pay the $1,600. Thus, if they vote against the income tax they would be voting themselves another $1,120 in taxes a year. And it isn't just their vote that counts, but their financial support and influence behind repeal of the income tax.

Difference Is Substantial

And if the stock tax idea puts the big money people in a hard bind, a bind they don't like, what does that suggest? It would seem to suggest that the income tax must be a little better deal for the so-called little man than some would have us believe.

'Operation Head Start'

On Growing Up

The experience of U.S. arms and statecraft in Viet Nam has been a sobering experience and may be a piece of timely education.

It recalls the experience of powerful Britain trying to put down our own war for independence. Our small and semi-civilian force run by non professional generals, seldom engaging in a head to head encounter, finally won its point by "fighting the wrong way." And we recall that we had difficulty for years, ourselves, with the semi-civilized Indian tribes which were fighting their way, not ours, to keep hold of their homeland.

The Vietnamese trouble is even more complicated. Unquestionably we have the armament, the sophistication and the numerical power to handle that little country rather quickly. But when a land is thousands of miles away and when its patriots and enemy look, act and live alike, and live in a country of swamps and jungles and all consider us as intruders, the problem of making war takes on great dimensions.

No doubt we are the most powerful Western nation, the shield of the free way of life. But the world is very large and full of variety. No nation in history has been able to bring it to heel. This is something we should think about. It is better we learn this in a small struggle than to be taught in a big one.

It is also good to learn that as a nation attains great power it loses allies—a form of fear, we suppose. The more we strive to do what we believe is our duty, the more our former friends take flight.

These are new experiences for the United States because our history is not of great length and we are running into facts for the first time.

The Eminent Domain Question

The legislature overrode Sen. Batchelder, Omaha, and, over his objections, advanced LB554 which provides for the State Game Commission to exercise the right of condemnation over various parcels of land totalling 4,139 acres.

Batchelder asserted in effect that the right of eminent domain should be allowed only where the procedure is necessary because of obscure ownership or title, but should not be used to force an unwilling owner to sell.

The land in question are those pieces needed to complete the state's 10 year park program. Since the Game Commission has but a limited right of exercise of condemnation it was required to seek legislative permission in this instance.

The right of condemnation, just as the propriety of levying taxes, goes back to the original concept that all land belongs to the king and though he may wish to turn the land over to individuals he does it conditionally. In our country the state replaces the king. Senator Batchelder would define new limitations to replace these ancient ones. If he prevailed this nation would never have had a railroad. Many towns could not have conducted a water supply to its citizens if one property owner enroute said no. No dams could be built. Almost nothing could be done.

The issue in LB554 is not one that involves eminent domain. Rather it is one that involves the good sense of the park program. It would have been better to have argued it out on the basis of that.

The legislature is not to be criticized for lending the means to the State Game Commission to complete a program the legislature has approved. And Sen. Batchelder should read up on the origins of the law on real property.

A Really Big Customer

One need only look at the power supply situation in connection with the proton accelerator laboratory proposed for Mead to realize what a fantastic development this would be for Nebraska. It has been reported that the Atomic Energy Commission has been offered a power rate of five mills or less for location of the plant at Mead.

The plant would be serviced, probably, by Omaha Public Power District which says its rate would be closer to 5.5 mills. But even at 5.5 mills, the rate is well under what most power can be purchased at for wholesale, much less the normal retail rate even in the commercial rate structure. OPPD claims it will cover all its costs and a small return on its investment if it services the proposed laboratory.

It would take expert analysis to challenge the OPPD claim but a 5.5 mill rate, much less 5 mills or less, would certainly seem to be a subsidy rate. While subsidizing of industry through power rates would not be uncommon for Omaha, it is a practice that ought to be frowned upon. It is a temptation that Lincoln will have to guard against when, as is expected, it assumes the entire retail power operation in the city.

But if industry is going to get a good deal on power rates, the proton accelerator is the place to do it. The odds are surely against Nebraska getting this federal research facility but if it did happen it would be about the biggest single thing to ever hit this state. It will use more power by itself than is used by the entire city of Lincoln and would constitute on its own a real population explosion for Nebraska.

Why Harriman Went To Moscow

WASHINGTON — The public doesn't know it, but the Moscow mission of Special Ambassador Averell Harriman really got started around a swimming pool in Georgetown.

About three years ago, the ex-governor of New York purchased the colonial Georgetown home of William Scranton, now governor of Pennsylvania, and on hot summer evenings he invites his friends for a swim in his garden pool.

Early this month, Harriman had two guests — Dick Goodwin of the White House staff and Anatoly Dobrynin, Soviet ambassador in Washington. The latter has been in the United States on three different missions, twice in Washington, once attached to the U.N. in New York. He knows this country well, has tried to improve USA-USSR relations and is trusted by the State Department as a man who tells the truth.

During the course of the swim, Ambassador Dobrynin engaged in a very frank conversation with Harriman and White House Aide Goodwin. He made it clear that the Soviet government is ready to go to war against the United States if pushed too far in North Viet Nam.

He explained that the Soviet Union has its alliances in the socialist world, just as the United States has its alliances with NATO in the capitalist world; and that just as we are pledged to go to war to support our allies, so Russia is pledged to go to war to support its allies.

☆ ☆ ☆

He made it clear that one of these allies is China and that, even though Moscow and Peking have not been getting along well, Moscow would be obligated to go to war to defend China if the United States engaged in a nuclear attack. The ambassador didn't say so, but it seemed clear that he had in mind the published reports that the Air Force high command wants to bomb the Chinese nuclear installations to prevent, or at least retard, the development of China as an atomic power.

Ambassador Dobrynin's warning was delivered not in belligerent tones, but rather sorrowfully as a friend. As such it was more effective.

Later, Gov. Harriman volunteered to go to Moscow, on vacation, to make himself available to Premier Kosygin for a full and frank discussion of the collision course on which the United States and the Soviet seem to be heading over Viet Nam. The State Department concurred.

Among the things Harriman told Kosygin was that President Johnson has no idea of escalating the war, has been careful to instruct U.S. bombers to hit at military targets, has no intention of bombing Hanoi, and is ready to negotiate for peace at any time.

Independence Declaration Exists In Three Versions

WASHINGTON — We may "hold these truths to be self-evident," but did you know that there is no such thing as an official version of the Declaration of Independence?

Although it is among the most sublime and frequently quoted documents in the world, neither the Supreme Court, the Congress, the U.S. Archivist nor the Librarian of Congress is able to say which of three differing versions is the legally correct one.

Brant Coopersmith, an official of the American Jewish Committee, was making a speech on civil rights in which he quoted from the Declaration of Independence: " . . . that they are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights . . ."

A woman in the audience interrupted to say that the correct quote was "inalienable," but Coopersmith advised her to re-read the declaration. The following week she mailed him a photograph of the carving on the Jefferson memorial. It did indeed read "inalienable rights."

Puzzled, Coopersmith checked with Interior Secretary Stewart Udall to see why a national monument under Interior's jurisdiction misquotes the declaration. Udall agreed that there is an "inconsistency," but said the memorial uses the Jeffersonian draft of the declaration, rather than the final one passed by the Continental Congress.

Coopersmith re-read Jefferson's draft and noted that the monument carving was faithful neither to that nor to the declaration, because it includes the words: "and for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor." The Continental Congress had added those noble words to Jefferson's draft.

Seeking enlightenment Coopersmith wrote to Dr. Julian P. Boyd of Princeton University, a recognized Jeffersonian authority who edited the Jefferson papers and was president of the American Historical Society; and to L. Quincy Mumford, the Librarian of Congress. He learned that besides Jefferson's there are three versions of the declaration: the rough draft printed in the Journal of Congress, the corrected draft which Congress adopted, and the engrossed parchment which the founding fathers signed. All are official in character, but there are slight variations in text and innumerable differences in capitalization and punctuation.

Further sleuthing by Coopersmith disclosed the reason for the discrepancies in the carved panel at the Jefferson memorial. The commission responsible for its design selected quotes from the declaration as originally drawn by Jefferson. When it was sent to the White House for final approval President Franklin D. Roosevelt added the last sentence from the declaration, although Jefferson had not authored it.

This poses two questions: should Congress now pass a resolution designating an official version of this great document? And should the lettering on the Jefferson memorial be altered to conform either to the Jefferson draft, or to the Declaration?

There's already enough confusion in Washington, without further confusing the millions of tourists who visit the memorial each year.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: What about an aneurysm on the leg directly behind the knee? Is an operation necessary? Is it dangerous to just let it go? What results can one expect? —MRS. W.H.

Molner

Let's discuss aneurysms in general, not just those behind the knee.

An aneurysm is a weak place in a blood vessel. If you had a bulgy place in a tire on your car, you wouldn't "just let it go." You would know that it might not be causing any noticeable difference in the way the car ran, but you'd know that if the bulgy place ruptured (a blowout, that is) it would give you a flat tire, might ruin the tire altogether, and could, in some circumstances, cause a bad accident.

So consider an aneurysm in exactly the same way.

There are different types of aneurysms, and most of the differences are medically technical and you wouldn't be interested in them. But there's one type, a so-called "dissecting aneurysm," which you should know about. In it, the weak spot develops between the inner and outer layers of the blood vessel. Gradually the pressure pushes the gap along between these layers, so the weakened area becomes bigger and bigger. This can continue for quite a long time. Sometimes.

What if the aneurysm finally bursts? Blood escapes and seeps through the surrounding tissues. The amount of pain varies, from none to quite a lot, depending on the location and other circumstances. So does the danger. But at best it is a serious condition, and in some cases it can be permanently disabling or even fatal.

If an aneurysm bursts in the brain, we have a "stroke." That's an example which is somewhat gloomy, in that there is scant if any chance of finding it in advance, and after it happens, the outlook depends on whether the "blowout" has been mild or severe. But you see the point.

If the aneurysm exists high in the chest, in the all-important artery (the aorta) leading from the heart, there is the added risk that the bulging may put pressure on other structures, and cause trouble and discomfort. This, however, is not an unmixed evil. It is also a warning that trouble is developing and ought to be corrected.

As to the area behind the knee, that is the popliteal artery, a large one, running through soft tissues and hence not strongly supported.

It is not by any means simple to correct such a weak place, but it has been done many times, by removing the affected section and replacing it with tubing made of woven plastic. Living tissue grows into the "weave" of the fabric, and what was weak becomes strong.

Whether such surgery is feasible in any given case depends on so many technical factors that I can't discuss them here. But if your doctor recommends surgery, say yes. Refuse, and you have to take your chances on losing the use of the leg, or formation of clots which may later stray and cause serious consequences elsewhere, as in the heart, lung, brain or kidneys.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is myopia? Can a girl having this wear contact lenses? When will the progress of the myopia stop? —J.K.

Myopia is near-sightedness. Yes, contact lenses can be worn. Whether the myopia progresses or stops is not predictable, but in any event vision can be corrected with glasses of conventional or contact types.

Dear Dr. Molner: After blood tests, the doctor says my husband has infectious mononucleosis. He is 38. There is no cure, apparently. Does it go away? —MRS. S.V.

You are right: There is no cure for "mono." But it is a self-limiting disease, meaning that it runs its course and stops.

The important part of treatment is to see that no complications develop; to guard against a relapse; and to ease such symptoms as become annoying. The chief complication involves the liver.

It is mainly a disease of older teen-agers and young adults, but I've known of cases in people in their 40's, and other cases in rather young children.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain why my joints creak. I have been told that it is due to a vitamin deficiency. I don't understand how this could be since I take vitamin pills regularly.—MRS. R.M.

Creaky joints are not a result of vitamin deficiency.

Rather, this is a mechanical problem. The cartilage may be thinned, or the edges of the bones may be thickened so they rub against each other slightly. Or in some cases a creak can be due to a tendon riding over a bony prominence.

The trouble is most likely to occur in the knees, neck and elbows.

It's the result of wear and tear on the joints, or mild arthritis.

Dear Dr. Molner: Our daughter is constantly drinking soft drinks. She claims she averages six to eight a day, but we feel she loses count of them for we have seen her drink two or three even before breakfast, and she gets up at night to drink them, too. This has been going on for several years. What risk is involved? —MRS. B.B.

Probably the most important risk is that these soft drinks (unless they are sugarless) contain a lot of calories. This can interfere with appetite for normal foods, hence possible lack of enough protein, vitamins and roughage. Or the extra calories (in the soft drinks) can bring on overweight. The carbonation, when drinking such quantities, can cause "gassy" stomach. And there is reason to believe that such constant presence of sugary liquid in the mouth encourages cavities.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner answers readers' questions in his column whenever possible.

Viet Nam's Lesson

Lincoln, Neb.

How is the average American supposed to face up to our involvement in the East Asia war.

According to the reports of the Wall Street Journal of July 15, "Doubts arise that United States can move fast enough to blunt the Red drive," it would seem that a change in tactics is the only way out of the crisis in which we have been involved by our leadership.

It is hard to ask this, but, if the efforts that have been made so far have produced no lasting results, will they ever?

As the U.S. forces have been checked at all points with only a minor enemy, what will be the results if our prestige goes down and the major forces of opposition combine their armies for an attack which could just as well be at some other vital or weak point instead of Viet Nam?

Americans are living in a make-believe world, and until we realize that high living and a devil-may-care attitude is okay for those who live for today only, it will never assure any future for our country.

State Malignancy

Lincoln, Neb.

We could say, "Lord forgive them for they know not what they do" in the case of those who advocate retention of 14(b) and state "Right To Work" (for peanuts) laws; but this simply is not the case — they know exactly what they do. This applies to the "Excess Profits Sweatshoppers" and all politicians who know where labor is at election time but only pays attention to Chambers of Commerce, Farm Bureau Federations, Sweatshoppers and lopsided newspapers between elections.

The ridiculous joke of our time is "compulsory dues to union bosses" as an argument for so called right to work laws — "Everyone should have a freedom of choice." George W. Norris and other statesmen would have hit this false image hard and would have told the people the truth. Union people didn't dig very deep for union dues; they get it from the added fruits of their productivity through collective bargaining.

Three cents per hour will more than pay most union dues. If union wages average only $2.50 per hour and sweatshop pay average $1.50 (about average for Nebraska) then the "freedom of choice" dues are actually $176 per month — my dues are $5 and my increase in productivity has more than tripled my increase in pay over the years.

A freedom of choice sweatshop with 800 employes and a net profit of $30,000,000 after taxes that underpays its employes by about $1 per hour will have to cut its profit to a mere $28,336,000 per year. But by paying sweatshop rates for its production it is beating the community and state out of the equivalent of another industry of about 300 employes by the adverse effect of multiplying loss of purchasing power.

Is it any wonder we are down to three congressmen and headed for two by using this malignant thinking?

Hastings Hospital

Hastings, Neb.

State Institutions Director George Morris should not become disturbed by the efforts of Dr. Finn Lunde, superintendent of the Hastings State Hospital, to make Mr. Morris the goat for Dr. Finn Lunde's failures and inefficiency as superintendent. Dr. Finn Lunde is running true to form, because he like others in his position have developed a peculiar characteristic of putting their failures upon someone else.

Consequently, the name of Dr. Finn Lunde should be added to the long list of names of former superintendents of the Hastings State Hospital, and other state mental hospitals throughout America, who spend much time tramping from one mental hospital to another because they cannot support themselves so lavishly in private practice as they are supported by the taxpayers.

Solons Restore $248,060 To State Safety Patrol Budget

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Wednesday restored a $248,060 cut in recommended appropriations for the State Safety Patrol, thus permitting it to hire 30 additional troopers during the 1965-67 biennium.

Legislative action, approved on a 31-7 vote, reversed an earlier decision to slice the Budget Committee's recommendation contained in LB922.

A similar effort to restore some $139,000 cut from recommended appropriations for the Department of Aeronautics for state aid to municipal airports fell three votes short of success.

However, Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff announced that he will renew the effort later, perhaps on Thursday.

Sen. George Gerdes of Alliance asked that the $139,000 be replaced in the Aeronautics budget, but the motion failed on a 22-17 vote. The amendment required 25 affirmative votes to carry.

Changed Vote

Carpenter later changed his supporting vote to nay in order to be in position to ask legislative reconsideration of the question.

Only other changes authorized in LB922, the budget Committee's second major appropriations bill, were 27 committee amendments, most of which provide for funding of the projected new Departments of Administrative Services and Revenue.

Carpenter proposed an addition of $674,300 to fund life insurance plans for all state employes, but he later withdrew the proposal in the face of technical difficulties.

Sen. William Hasebroock of West Point urged the restoration of Safety Patrol funds, arguing that a cut in recommended appropriations is "a luxury which we cannot afford."

Increased Slaughter

Hasebroock pointed to "increased slaughter on the highways" and the added traffic burden created each year.

Sen. Cecil Craft of North Platte opposed the Hasebroock amendment, contending that appropriations permitting the addition of 15 troopers during the biennium were "real fair."

The Patrol had requested 80 more troopers; the committee recommended 30, and the Legislature had supported only 15 prior to acceptance of the Hasebroock amendment.

Voting against the restoration of funds were Sens. Cliff on Batchelder of Omaha, Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud, Craft, Frank Nelson of O'Neill, Ira Paine of Grand Island, Chet Paxton of Thedford, and Ramey Whitney of Chappell.

Actual Reduction

Gerdes told lawmakers that the aeronautics reduction would actually reduce assistance for municipal airports by $556,000. The state aid represents only 25% of the cost. with the federal government providing 50% and local government 25%.

Sen. George Syas of Omaha argued that the Legislature should not subsidize airports with state tax money when airlines are in direct competition with railroads and truckers.

The $139,000 represented the first general fund request ever from the Department of Aeronautics, which funds its programs with cash derived from licenses and fees.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Heart Disease Causes Baffling

By ROBERT PETERSON

Science has made many marvelous conquests of disease. But it seems to be up against a stone wall when it comes to diseases of the heart and circulatory system.

These diseases are our nation's No. 1 killer and cause nearly a million deaths annually — many among middle-agers. Yet this scourge continues to thrive and the medical profession seems totally confused as to the cause, as witness the wide difference of opinion among doctors on such factors as diet, cholesterol, smoking and exercise.

A release from the American Heart Association states, "In the 15 years since the first Heart Fund campaign . . . $100 million has been channeled into research . . . many more millions have been invested by the association in bringing the results of productive research to the nation's physicians for the benefit of their patients . . ."

One wonders what these benefits to patients may be. I've just spent an hour perusing half a dozen of the latest booklets on heart disease issued by the Association. I'm sorry to report they offer little more enlightenment to the public than assorted suggestions watered down with "maybes and possiblys"—such as learn to relax, get a little exercise daily, watch your weight and cut down on fatty foods.

It would seem that after spending more than a hundred million dollars researchers might have come up with at least one new concept which could be stated with absolute firmness as a causative factor in heart disease. But apparently they have been unable to do so.

On the matter of diet, one A.H.A. booklet, "Diet and Heart Disease," states, "No one should make major changes in diet without first consulting his physician."

Eager to do whatever possible to avoid contracting heart disease, I recently, contract four physicians and asked if I should alter my diet to reduce my chances of becoming a heart victim.

I'm sorry to report that the verdicts of these medics cancel each other out. Two of the doctors suggested that I put down on animal fats, while the other two told me to stop worrying and continue the normal diet to which I am accustomed.

If you would like a booklet "Basic Health Rules for Older People" write to Robert Peterson, "Life Begins at Forty," c/o The Lincoln Star, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents to cover handling costs.

Gerdes told lawmakers that the aeronautics reduction would actually reduce assistance for municipal airports by $556,000. The state aid represents only 25% of the cost. with the federal government providing 50% and local government 25%.

Sen. George Syas of Omaha argued that the Legislature should not subsidize airports with state tax money when airlines are in direct competition with railroads and truckers.

The $139,000 represented the first general fund request ever from the Department of Aeronautics, which funds its programs with cash derived from licenses and fees.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Heart Disease Causes Baffling

By ROBERT PETERSON

Science has made many marvelous conquests of disease. But it seems to be up against a stone wall when it comes to diseases of the heart and circulatory system.

These diseases are our nation's No. 1 killer and cause nearly a million deaths annually — many among middle-agers. Yet this scourge continues to thrive and the medical profession seems totally confused as to the cause, as witness the wide difference of opinion among doctors on such factors as diet, cholesterol, smoking and exercise.

A release from the American Heart Association states, "In the 15 years since the first Heart Fund campaign . . . $100 million has been channeled into research . . . many more millions have been invested by the association in bringing the results of productive research to the nation's physicians for the benefit of their patients . . ."

One wonders what these benefits to patients may be. I've just spent an hour perusing half a dozen of the latest booklets on heart disease issued by the Association. I'm sorry to report they offer little more enlightenment to the public than assorted suggestions watered down with "maybes and possiblys"—such as learn to relax, get a little exercise daily, watch your weight and cut down on fatty foods.

It would seem that after spending more than a hundred million dollars researchers might have come up with at least one new concept which could be stated with absolute firmness as a causative factor in heart disease. But apparently they have been unable to do so.

On the matter of diet, one A.H.A. booklet, "Diet and Heart Disease," states, "No one should make major changes in diet without first consulting his physician."

Eager to do whatever possible to avoid contracting heart disease, I recently, contract four physicians and asked if I should alter my diet to reduce my chances of becoming a heart victim.

I'm sorry to report that the verdicts of these medics cancel each other out. Two of the doctors suggested that I put down on animal fats, while the other two told me to stop worrying and continue the normal diet to which I am accustomed.

If you would like a booklet "Basic Health Rules for Older People" write to Robert Peterson, "Life Begins at Forty," c/o The Lincoln Star, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents to cover handling costs.

Cigarette Price Fixing Bill Passed

Bills prohibiting below-cost selling of cigarettes and dairy products were among seven passed on final reading in the State Legislature Wednesday.

The price fixing bill on cigarettes, LB849, was introduced by the Salaries and Claims Committee and was passed 35-9.

The Dairy Industry Trade Practices Act, LB161 was introduced by Sens J W Burbach of Crofton, Maurice Kremer of Aurora and W H Hasebroock of West Point.

Also passed were bills making industrial espionage a felony, and creating an advisory committee on aging in the state.

The list (E—emergency clause).

LB914—Authorizing the Nebraska Educational Television Commission to acquire 3.58 acres of land southeast of Angora in Morrill County by eminent domain for transmitter puposes and to publish informational material for which fees may be charged (For the governor, by Gerdes) (E) (38-0)

LB374—Authorizing Department of Institutions to sell certain surplus farm land at the Geneva Girls' Training School. (Marvel) (E) (41-0)

LB880—Providing that when a school district is merged into a Class 3 district, the annexed district shall be responsible for its indebtedness previously incurred, but not responsible for prior Class 3 indebtedness (Education Committee) (40-1)

LB894—Creating a 12-member advisory committee on aging and authorizing the governor to receive federal funds or grants and gifts to help carry out the act's purposes (For the governor, by Bowen) (32-7)

LB867—Making it a felony to steal or [illegible] trade secrets (For the governor, by Stryker) (43-0)

LB849—Prohibiting below-cost selling of cigarettes at wholesale or retail (Salaries and Claims Committee) (35-9)

LB161 — Enacting a Dairy Industry Trade Practices Act, creating a Division of Dairy Trade Practices in the Department of Agriculture and prohibiting the below-cost selling of dairy products (Burbach, Kremer, Hasebroock) (33-10)

Camp: Full-Time Legislature May Be Needed In Future

A spokesman for the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation said Wednesday the day may be coming when the state will need and have a full-time Legislature, meeting every year from early January to the winter holiday season.

Pushing in this direction is the growth of administration and judicial branches of government and the possible need for the legislative branch to maintain a constant check on these other branches, according to Bernie Camp, the Farm Bureau's information director.

"This may be the price paid to maintain some equilibrium between administrative, judiciary and legislative branches in big government at the state as well as the national level," he wrote in his weekly "legislative sidelines" column.

He noted that administrative agencies at all levels of government "have become almost autonomous through their regulatory and quasi-judicial activities." At the same time the courts of late have "invaded the field of lawmaking."

The State Legislature becomes "the counteraction to bureaucracy and rule by legal opinion," Camp said.

ILLEGAL DRIVES FENCED

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Several illegal residential drives onto controlled-access Highway 2 in the 70th street area are being fenced out by the State Highway Department.

Deputy State Engineer Gerald Strobel said Tuesday the fencing is being installed along the highway right-of-way line both east and west of 70th.

When Highway 2 was improved about six years ago as a federal-aid project, access control along the widened right-of-way was purchased by the highway department.

Insure Integrity

"We intend to enforce the controlled access," Strobel. "Unless steps are taken to insure the integrity of the controlled-access highway, the problem will become worse in this suburban area."

Strobel said the department has warned the violating property owners for the past two years and is now taking action.

"Until the violations are removed," he said, "the Federal Bureau of Roads will withhold construction funds on the project or other ones."

Posted

Strobel said the highway is access-controlled from 14th eastward past 70th and is so posted.

Some of the property owners are making arrangements to remove their driveways from the highway and provide access to 70th.

He said one property owner has the option seeking access through private arrangements to 70th or jointly share a designated access point onto the highway with an abutting property.

Fields Open

A few farm residences were given direct access to the highway in right-of-way negotiations. There are several field access points, but these cannot be converted to residential access, he said.

Access points along the southern edge of Lincoln are at the arterial streets of 14th, 27th, 33rd, 48th, 56th, 64th and 70th and Pioners Blvd.

Suburban development is putting more pressure for direct access to Highway 2, but Strobel said the department and the Federal Bureau of Roads is limiting access points to the major arterial streets and county roads.

Improved

Cornhusker Highway which has long been a problem is being improved with access controls and service roads. Strobel said.

Strobel said access controls and their strict enforcement is the only means of insuring the safety and traffic flow of modern hghways.

Education Dept. Staff Adds 5

Dr. Floyd A. Miller, state education commissioner, Wednesday announced the appointment of five new members to the Nebraska Education Department staff.

They are: Loren D. Brakenhoff, elementary principal at Fremont public schools; Gus Lieske, director of guidance and special education for Cozad schools; Ralph L. Gray, superintendent of schools at Blue Hill; Lawrence Hilty, co-administrator at Alvo-Eagle schools; and James A. Sorenson, a teacher and counselor at Beatrice schools.

Gage County Assessor Urges Equalization

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Gage County Assessor E. Lloyd Jones Wednesday urged the State Board of Equalization to equalize assessment levels between the counties.

"We paid $100,000 in state taxes for some one else during the last five years because of lack of state-wide equalization," he said, basing the estimate on sales-assessment ratio studies.

Jones said sales-assessment ratios "are probably not a good tool, but I don't know of any better one the board can use."

More Accurate

"I think this year's figures will be more accurate and reliable," he added.

Answering a board question, the assessor said, "Disparity in assessment between counties has adversely affected school redistricting."

Johnson County officials told the board that Douglas and Lancaster counties "don't pay their fair share of taxes" and urged that every county "be leveled off at the statutory 35% (assessed value to actual value)."

In a surprise twist as 14 counties testified Wednesday, Pawnee County officials said, "We don't want a reduction because of county tax needs for damaged bridges and culverts, but we don't want to pay more than our fair share of state taxes either."

Board members noted that Pawnee County assessment level exceeds the 35% ratio in relation to sales-assessment ratios.

Earlier in the day, Fillmore and Nuckolls county officials suggested the board hold off changing county valuations "until more counties have completed reappraisals."

Nuckolls County Attorney W. E Garrison said, "It will be impossible to reach any type of equalization from the state level until all the state is reappraised."

"Until then," he added, Nebraska should get along as best it can."

The board winds up seven days of hearings Friday with Lancaster and Douglas being among the six counties to appear on the final day.

The board must equalize county assessment levels and fix the state levy by Aug. 2.

Oregon Man Convicted In Douglas County Is Freed

The State Board of Pardons Wednesday commuted the sentence of Douglas Peters, 27, Salem, Ore., and discharged him from the Nebraska Penitentiary.

Peters was sentenced to five years by the District Court of Douglas County on Jan. 28, 1963. He was convicted of robbery.

Peters was one of eight penitentiary inmates to appear before the board.

Other board action, giving inmates's name, age, home, crime, county in which convicted, sentence (in years), date sentenced and determination:

Ben Abramson, 25, Omaha; no account check and probation violation, Douglas, nine to three, July 10, 1964, paroled.

Lawrence Miller, 37, Omaha; larceny by bailee, Douglas, three to five, July 23, 1962, paroled.

Henry E Pruitt Jr., 29, Kansas City, Mo.; burglary and grand larceny, Keith, one to three, July 6, 1964, paroled.

Henry T. Duncan, 59, North Platte; manslaughter; Lincoln, five, Jan 8, 1963, action deferred

Resolution Asks State Units To Stop Farming

A resolution advising state agencies and departments to get out of the crop-sharing farm business was introduced in the Legislature Wednesday.

Action on the resolution was deferred.

Sen. Erie Rasmussen of Fairmont, chief introducer of Resolution 76, told a newsman it was prompted especially by activities of the Department of Aeronautics, but would affect also the Game Commission.

The resolution directs all departments, boards and commissions except the Department of Public Institutions and the University of Nebraska cease operating farm lands by March 1, 1967 "except as landlords under written leases."

The resolution also advocates that no capital improvements be made to any farm land owned by the state, its departments, boards or commissions except the university and institutions department.

Sen. Rasmussen noted that the Aeronautics Department has asked a general fund appropriation of $139,000 to compensate for declining income from its farming operations.

Rasmussen said the department should be required to lease out its farm land holdings as state school lands are leased, and that this would provide "a more stable income."

Braniff Introduces Jetliner At Omaha

Omaha (AP) — Braniff International Airways introduced jetliner service to Omaha travelers Wednesday with civic officials on hand to participate in the inauguration of the jets on the north-south routes.

Braniff is beginning daily schedules through Omaha with British made BAC-111 jetliner, a 63-passenger, 550-mile-per hour twin jet plane.

The schedule calls for arrival at 8:55 a.m. daily after a 35-minute trip from Kansas City and a 9:10 a.m. takeoff on the 52-minute trip to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Postmaster John P Munnelly put a sack of first flight covers on the plane prior to its take-off for Minneapolis. Others on hand included Louis Somberg, president of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce, and Floyd Nebergall, chairman of the Chamber Aviation Committee.

Radio Devices May Caution Drivers

Washington (AP)—A system to alert drivers of highway dangers of changing road conditions dead ahead by equipping their auto radios to speak pre-recorded words of caution was demonstrated Wednesday.

The Ford Motor Co. showed transmitters set up to trigger warnings of such hazards as bridge washouts, roadblocks, traffic pileups, icy roads, changes in speed limits and other traffic situations.

The warning messages are stored on magnetic tape in a memory unit linked in the auto with the driver's radio receiver. A transmitter set at a strategic spot selects and with its beep triggers the proper message—when the driver is from 200 to 2,000 feet of the hazard.

Interrupts

And it speaks up even if the radio is turned off and interrupts any entertainment the driver might be tuned to. In Wednesday's demonstration, the voice was that of a woman, speaking in clear, no-nonsense tones.

The device was shown to newsmen riding company cars at various places along the Potomac—near the Pentagon, Arlington National Cemetery and the Lincoln Memorial.

Meanwhile Ford officials went before a Senate hearing on auto safety as leaders of the other big auto manufacturers have done the past week or so.

Trigger Message

The roadside radio transmitters—which can be permanent or mobile—are designed to trigger the driver's prerecorded message at a set point along the highway. The directional trigger can be devised to set the voice in action at one or both sides of a highway danger spot or all four points of an intersection.

Up to 40 messages can be pre-recorded to meet the most likely traffic hazards a driver would face.

Officials of Ford and of Philco Co., which helped develop the system, said transmitters could be carried in police cars, fire trucks and other emergency vehicles. Too, a policeman could place a portable one near the scene of an accident or a roadblock if a permanent one were not nearby.

Philco men estimated that a single roadside transmitter unit, if produced in large quantities, could be built for $25 an installation.

On the automobile end of the system, equipment could be added to existing transistorized car radios at a cost of $35 to $50, they said—with the cost dropping to $15 or $20 if car radios were especially built for the system.

Chicagoan New Business Administrator At Hastings

A Chicago man, Carl D. Rinker, 59, was named Wednesday as business administrator of the Hastings State Hospital by Institutions Director George Morris.

Meanwhile, Morris said, the last of three active leads for persons to take over as superintendent of the hospital "fell through" Wednesday morning.

"We are without an active lead for a new superintendent as of this morning," Morris said.

Morris said Rinker will begin work Aug. 1 at a $13,000 annual salary.

He said Rinker had served in hospital administration at the state mental hospital at Independence, Iowa, and at several general hospitals.

For the past two years, Morris said, Rinker was an accreditation inspector for the American Hospital Association.

Until a new superintendent is named for Hastings, Morris noted, the vacancy will be filled by Dr. Carl Gouldman, an assistant superintendent at the mental hospital.

16,000 Youths Are Placed In Summer Jobs

Gov. Frank Morrison reported Wednesday 16,470 youths have been employed through a drive to find summer jobs for youngsters, but 7,650 still are out of work.

"Each Nebraska community, if it puts its shoulder to the wheel, can find jobs for the rest of these youths," said the governor. "Idleness among youths is a crime breeder and the chief cause of juvenile delinquency, and it must be put to an end."

The governor's committee on summer jobs for youth was created after President Johnson called for a nationwide effort to employ youths aged 16 through 22.

Of the job placements under the drive, 669 came from state agencies, with the Departments of Roads and Public Institutions and the Game Commission being the largest state employers.

Morrison said the committee has been so successful that he may recommend that it be established on a permanent basis.

W. LINCOLN'S WELL REPORT UNAVAILABLE

West Lincoln Village Board Chairman Curtis Jensen, who was to have received an engineer's report on a test water well dug in the village Monday, was "not available" Wednesday night, members of his family said.

Jensen had said earlier that if the well was salty—and Jensen said he suspected it might be—then "we'll probably have no alternative other than to go into the city."

This was a reference to a bill passed in the Legislature Monday which permits Lincoln to annex West Lincoln. The bill is tied to water service and presumably would be null if the village found its own source of water, now supplied by Lincoln.

$58,606 Damage Suit Is Filed

Mina Etmund filed a $58,606.06 suit in Lancaster District Court Wednesday against Loudella Frye in connection with a May 1, 1964, accident.

The plaintiff alleges negligence on the part of the defendant when the Frye vehicle was in collision with the can in which the plaintiff was riding at 52nd and Gladstone.

Pakinstan Plans Guerrilla Force

Rawalpindi, Pakistan (AP)—Pakistan will raise a guerrilla volunteer force of 150,000 persons, a government spokesman told the national assembly Wednesday.

Parliamentary Secretary for Defense Mohammed Qasim Malik said volunteers will be called the Pakistan Mujahid Force. An auxiliary force, it will be trained in guerrilla tactics and could be called in event of war.

Bids For Underground Missile Silos Range From $1 To $26,110

Washington (AP)— The government received bids Wednesday ranging from $1 to $26,110 for more than 100 surplus concrete-lined underground missile silos.

The Government Services Administration said there were 28 bids received for the 12 silos located in the Lincoln complex.

A spokesman said it will be a while before information is available on what most of the bidders intend to do with the 180-foot deep, air conditioned silos, declared obsolete because of the advance in missile technology.

The silos cost the government from $12 million to $25 million each to build.

GSA offered for sale 148 of the silos scattered around the country near Air Force bases.

They once housed the Atlas E, Atlas F and Titan I missiles for national defense. The Defense Department declared them obsolete.

There were 54 bidders who submitted 186 offers for various silos in 14 complexes at 109 sites.

The highest offer of $26,110 was by E. Earl and Carol Norwood of Billings, Mont. They want the silo in a three-site complex near Mountain Home, Idaho. There were eight bids for these three silos.

Most of the bids ranged from $2,500 to $7,500 each.

Radio Devices May Caution Drivers

Washington (AP)—A system to alert drivers of highway dangers of changing road conditions dead ahead by equipping their auto radios to speak pre-recorded words of caution was demonstrated Wednesday.

The Ford Motor Co. showed transmitters set up to trigger warnings of such hazards as bridge washouts, roadblocks, traffic pileups, icy roads, changes in speed limits and other traffic situations.

The warning messages are stored on magnetic tape in a memory unit linked in the auto with the driver's radio receiver. A transmitter set at a strategic spot selects and with its beep triggers the proper message—when the driver is from 200 to 2,000 feet of the hazard.

Interrupts

And it speaks up even if the radio is turned off and interrupts any entertainment the driver might be tuned to. In Wednesday's demonstration, the voice was that of a woman, speaking in clear, no-nonsense tones.

Universities Face Skyrocketing Expenses

By LESLIE J. NASON

State and private universities face a common problem of skyrocketing costs. Operating costs go up year after year even when enrollments are held constant.

For example, Dr. J. Roscoe Miller, president of Northwestern University, points to the upward cost trend for that school. In 1949, the university budget was approximately $16 million. Next year, with a somewhat smaller enrollment, the budget will be in excess of $60 million.

Northwestern dedicated a $9 million addition to the School of Medicine, May 18, 1965. In dedicating the Searle Building, Dr. Miller noted that while the new building will increase the space for teaching and research facilities at the medical school by more than 70%, it will have little, if any, effect on the size of the school's enrollment. The program calls for giving an improved type of education to about the same number of prospective physicians.

High Expenses

In 1963, president Clark Kerr gave the operating expenses of the University of Southern California from all sources as nearly $½ billion, with almost $100 million additional for construction. The total employment figure at the school was over 40,000 with nearly 100,000 students. These figures are totals covering all of the divisions of the university scattered throughout the state.

The cost per student for university education is difficult to compute from these figures. On the face it would approximate $5,000 per student per year. But, as president Kerr pointed out, much less than one-third of the university expenditures were directly related to teaching.

College education is provided at less cost to the taxpayer in state colleges where there isn't as much emphasis on research and publication.

Off-Campus Buildings

In the junior colleges of California, where almost the entire emphasis is on teaching, a year of college costs the taxpayer approximately $400 per student and, at the same time, is nominally free to the student. It can be seen, therefore, that a major element in the accelerating costs is the change of emphasis from teaching to research.

While advanced work in science, engineering and medicine requires more expensive laboratories and equipment, much undergraduate college work can be carried out effectively in junior and senior high school buildings not otherwise used on Saturdays or in the evenings.

The University of California is already providing service to approximately 200,000 students in extension courses. In addition to lower division courses, it includes one out of every three lawyers and one out of every six doctors in the state.

Fish Sure To Bite

Port Elizabeth, South Africa (AP) — Night-time anglers have found a spot to fish in Port Elizabeth — the city's Oceanarium. Colin Taylor, the curator, has found several fish swimming around with hooks and pieces of line hanging from their mouths. The pool which had found favor with the nocturnal fishermen was the Oceanarium's small tank where specimens of salt water fish are kept. For some time the curator had been puzzled by the mysterious loss of several prize exhibits. Police have established that people have been seen climbing up to the tank from the roof of an adjoining building, said Taylor.

CARMICHAEL

Cave Breathes

Bowling Green, Ky. (AP) — Tourists often wonder why the temperature remains at 54 degrees inside Mammoth Cave. The cave breathes. When it's below 54 outside, an in-breathing or movement of air in the cave occurs. When the outside temperature is above 54, the cycle is reversed.

Paraplegics' Taxes Not Collectible In '65

The State Justice Department held Wednesday that taxes levied in 1964 on the homes of paraplegic veterans are not collectible this year.

Voters last November approved a constitutional amendment exempting the homes from taxation, and the Legislature in May passed a bill providing procedures for determination of the exemption.

The Justice Department noted that one section of the bill, LB846, provides that when application for tax exemption is made on or before Aug. 1 of this year, the exemption "shall apply for the year 1965," thus preventing the collection of any taxes on the home.

However, the department said that the exemption may be waived by the veterans by failing to make the proper application for exemption under the procedures listed in LB846.

The opinion, written by Assistant Atty. Gen. Homer Hamilton and approved by Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer, was in answer to a question from State Tax Commissioner George Dworak.

Fish Sure To Bite

Port Elizabeth, South Africa (AP) — Night-time anglers have found a spot to fish in Port Elizabeth — the city's Oceanarium Colin Taylor, the curator, has found several fish swimming around with hooks and pieces of line hanging from their mouths. The pool which had found favor with the nocturnal fishermen was the Oceanarium's small tank where specimens of salt water fish are kept For some time the curator had been puzzled by the mysterious loss of several prize exhibits. Police have established that people have been seen climbing up to the tank from the roof of an adjoining building, said Taylor.

Cave Breathes

Bowling Green, Ky. (AP) — Tourists often wonder why the temperature remains at 54 degrees inside Mammoth Cave. The cave breathes. When it's below 54 outside, an in-breathing or movement of air in the cave occurs. When the outside temperature is above 54, the cycle is reversed.

Paraplegics' Taxes Not Collectible In '65

The State Justice Department held Wednesday that taxes levied in 1964 on the homes of paraplegic veterans are not collectible this year.

Voters last November approved a constitutional amendment exempting the homes from taxation, and the Legislature in May passed a bill providing procedures for determination of the exemption.

The Justice Department noted that one section of the bill, LB846, provides that when application for tax exemption is made on or before Aug. 1 of this year, the exemption "shall apply for the year 1965." thus preventing the collection of any taxes on the home.

However, the department said that the exemption may be waived by the veterans by failing to make the proper application for exemption under the procedures listed in LB846.

The opinion, written by Assistant Atty. Gen. Homer Hamilton and approved by Atty. Gen. Clarence A H. Meyer, was in answer to a question from State Tax Commissioner George Dworak.

Rescued Worker Is 'Good'

A construction worker from New Orleans, La., was reported in good condition at a Lincoln hospital after nearly being buried in a trench cave-in at 3015 Kucera Drive.

Clifton Whitmore, 26, who was working for the Leslie Lindburg Construction Co., was digging around the foundation of the Dr. George Dean home when the six foot walls of the trench collapsed on him.

Mrs. Dean Heard Whitmore's cries for help and she summoned firemen who freed him.

State Safety Engineer Ben Zersen investigated the mishap and ordered the work halted at the site until the trenches could be properly shored up.

He said the law requires dirt removed from a ditch or trench to be placed at least 18 inches away from the top edge of the opening and that shoring should be provided after the trench has reached a depth of four feet.

Zersen said, "That hole was five to six feet deep and wasn't shored and thousands of pounds of dirt removed from it and saturated with rain were piled right along the top edge."

The Lincoln fire department was cited by both Mrs. Dean and Zersen for doing a quick and excellent rescue job in connection with the cave-in.

Children's Zoo Opens; It Was Worth The Wait

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Children's Zoo was officially opened to the public Wednesday, and the hundreds of visitors who were on hand for the premiere event will admit that it was well worth the wait.

Both pleased and relieved was Arnot Folsom, president of the Children's Zoo Association, who has opposed any premature opening date.

Some attractions in the zoo are not yet completed and visitors found the going a little muddy, giving credence to Folsom's statement that "our work here will never end."

He pointed out that the gibbon cage, to be inhabited by a colony of gibbons including "Dear Abby," a monkey donated by columnist Abigail Van Buren, and the otter slide and pool will be finished before the season ends in the fall.

Unequalled

More landscaping and other work needs to be done, but the $1.5 million zoo, financed almost entirely by private donations, gives Lincoln an attraction unequalled by any other similar facility in the country.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of the zoo is the actual contact between children and the animals.

"More contact between people and animals than any other zoo in the world," Folsom said.

Observed:

—One young opening-day visitor playfully entangled with a six-foot boa constrictor in an open air play pen.

Donkey Eats Flower

—One ringtail monkey, escaped from his cage in the middle of Monkey Island, sitting on the outer ledge shaking hands with on-lookers.

Folsom said there is no problem with animals being hurt by rambunctious kids, and very little chance of animals doing any damage themselves.

He noted that attendants, "zoo girls" and "zoo boys," are stationed in areas where there is actual contact with animals. "They keep an eye on things and answer questions," he said.

Proud

Folsom walked around the zoo again, pointing out the Barbados brown sheep with triplet lambs, the flamingoes, macaws, squirrel monkeys, the "Mouse House," post office, blacksmith's shop and the jail.

Jack A. Carey Named To Post On Wyuka Board

Morrison also named Walter Slack of Omaha, editor of the Stockman's Journal, to the Water Pollution Control Council.

Slack will complete the unexpired term of Lee J. Housewright Jr. of Fremont, who is leaving the state. The term expires March 1, 1967.

Californians: Sleepy Hollow Folk Are Nice, Thrifty Folk

Sleepy Hollow, Calif. (AP)— Residents of this unincorporated northern California town are proud of its name, Sleepy Hollow — and they want that known to some Michigan people they think are misguided.

At Laingsburg, Mich., an editor's suggestion that the name be changed to Sleepy Hollow to go along with a nearby state park drew protests. One critic rejoined that the characters in Washington Irving's "The Legend Of Sleepy Hollow" were "dull, greedy, stupid . . ."

"That's terrible for them to say; it's simply outrageous," retorted Mrs. Terry Hauge, secretary of the Sleepy Hollow, Calif., Homeowners Association.

"I thought the people in Irving's story were industrious, thrifty Dutch folk. Sleepy Hollow denominates a nice, quiet, restful community."

Sleepy Hollow, which has around 1,000 residents, is near San Anselmo, 20 miles north of San Francisco.

Eight Achieve Perfect Grade Averages At NU

Eight of the more than 8,900 undergraduates who studied on the Lincoln campuses of the University of Nebraska made semester grade averages of 9 — the highest possible — while carrying 12 or more credit hours of work this spring.

Another 62 students achieved semester averages of 8.5 or better.

An average of 9 is equal to an A-plus and 8.5 is equal to an A, or between 92 and 95 on a grading scale of 100.

The eight who made the all but impossible average of 9 are:

Vernon E. Barnet, 138 So. 9th, Lincoln married, philosophy major, graduated in June.

Carl M Colson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Colson of Dawson, zoology-botany major, graduated in June.

Louise E. Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Ellis of Adams, sophomore history major in teachers and arts and sciences.

Dale Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Hanson of Ithaca, mechanized agriculture major, honor graduate in June.

Gary M. Sherman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Sherman, Limon, Colo., a physical education major and June graduate.

Mrs. Clairel Lovenburg Welsh of Millard (4847 So. 121st), a sophomore in business teacher education. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Lovenburg of Alliance.

Those who achieved semester averages of 8.5 or better are:

Gwendolyn K. Waldo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Waldo, Orleans, fine arts honor graduate, 8.846.

Katherine M. Schach, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Paul Schach, 1901 So. 51st, Lincoln, political science major, 8.833.

Marvin E. Criswell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur A. Criswell, Chappell, honor graduate engineering, 8.813.

Loren S. Bonderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bonderson, Emerson, engineering, 8.800.

Thomas L. Burger, son of Mrs. Lawrence E. Burger, Grand Island, arts and sciences, 8.800.

Karen Mary Woodward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Warren Woodward, 1529 W. Manor Drive, Lincoln, honor graduate, teaches, 8.769.

Merlin Lee Pardee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pardee, Burr, engineering, 8.765.

James R. Federhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo F. Federhart, Sioux City, Iowa, arts and sciences, 8.765.

Kathleen A Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Gould, McCook, honor graduate arts and sciences, 8.750.

Rodney S. Basler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Basler, Papillion, arts and sciences, 8.733.

Pamela Jo Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Harris, Arlington, Va., arts and sciences, 8.733.

David E. Rybin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rybin, 5001 So. 20th, Omaha, arts and sciences, 8.733.

Mary Elizabeth Schuldt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Schuldt, South Sioux City, arts and sciences, 8.733.

Lloyed R. Reeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Reeder, Shelton, agriculture, 8.722.

Richard S. Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Elliott, Weeping Water, arts and sciences, 3.714.

Bruce K. Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Carlson, Holdrege, agriculture, 8.714.

William W. Biggs, 4845 Knox, Lincoln, son of Mrs. Boyd C. Biggs 6034 Huntington, Lincoln, engineering, 8.692.

Dennis A. Novacek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Novacek, Benkelman, engineering, 8.688.

Harry A. Sundblad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Sundblad, 1403 So. 8th, Omaha, business, 8.688.

Mrs. Carmen Sublett Garland, 1810 Donald Circle, Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis W. Sublett, Kansas City, Kan., honor graduate, teachers, 8.667.

John Q. Kirkman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Elroy Kirkman, Rt. 1, Omaha, engineering, 8.667.

John A. Goedeken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Goedeken, Naponee, agriculture, 8.667.

Louetta M. Velte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Velte, Brule, teachers, 8.647.

Economic Education Seminar Lauded

Forty Nebraska elementary and secondary school teachers have expressed a high degree of enthusiasm for a three-week seminar on economic education now in progress at the University of Nebraska.

The seminar is one of 62 programs of this type being held in 25 states this summer with a combined enrollment of more than 2,400 teachers, according to Dr. E. S. Wallace, seminar director and head of the University's Bureau of Business Research.

The Nebraska Council on Economic Education is providing fellowships for the 40 participants in the program which is designed to enhance their understanding of economics as well as methods of teaching the subject.

"The teaching concepts being developed at McPhee School in Lincoln certainly demonstrate how skilled teachers can introduce economics to grade school children to enrich their daily experience," said Mrs. Betty Korinek, a Lincoln teacher and seminar participant.

Frances Rorich of Norfolk said "I am impressed with the wide range of speakers (27 educators and economists from across the U.S.) at the workshop. The participants also come from varying backgrounds with respect to economic education, which makes for a good variety of viewpoints."

"The seminar sessions have been especially factual and comprehensive," said Gerald M. Danskin of Norfolk. "The course is very stimulating in that many unanswered questions are raised thus whetting curiosity."

Thomas Hovorka of Alliance termed the program excellent. "Because I am in secondary education in economics, I have been impressed by the program and have learned a great deal."

Eight Achieve Perfect Grade Averages At NU

Eight of the more than 8,900 undergraduates who studied on the Lincoln campuses of the University of Nebraska made semester grade averages of 9 — the highest possible — while carrying 12 or more credit hours of work this spring.

Another 62 students achieved semester averages of 8.5 or better.

An average of 9 is equal to an A-plus and 8.5 is equal to an A, or between 92 and 95 on a grading scale of 100.

The eight who made the all but impossible average of 9 are:

Vernon E. Barnet, 138 So. 9th, Lincoln married, philosophy major, graduated in June.

Carl M Colson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Colson of Dawson, zoology-botany major, graduated in June.

Louise E Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Ellis of Adams, sophomore history major in teachers and arts and sciences.

Gary M. Sherman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Sherman, Limon, Colo., a physical education major and June graduate.

Mrs. Clairel Lovenburg Welsh of Millard (4647 So. 121st), a sophomore in business teacher education. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Lovenburg of Alliance.

Those who achieved semester averages of 8.5 or better are:

Gwendolyn K. Waldo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Waldo, Orleans, fine arts honor graduate, 8.846.

Katherine M. Schach, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Paul Schach, 1901 So. 51st, Lincoln, political science major, 8.833.

Marvin E. Criswell, son of Mr. and Mrs Wilbur A. Criswell, Chappell, honor graduate engineering, 8.813.

Loren S Bonderson, son of Mr. and Mrs Elmer Bonderson, Emerson, engineering, 8.800.

Thomas L. Burger, son of Mrs. Lawrence E. Burger, Grand Island, arts and sciences, 8.800.

Karen Mary Woodward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs W. Warren Woodward, 1529 W Manor Drive, Lincoln, honor graduate, teacher, 8.769.

Merlin Lee Parde, son of Mr. and Mr. Louis Parde, Burr, engineering, 8.765.

James R. Federhart, son of Mr. and Mrs Hugo F Federhart, Sioux City, Iowa, arts and sciences, 8.765.

Kathleen A Robertson, daughter of Mr and Mrs Robert E. Gould, McCook, honor graduate arts and sciences, 8.750.

Rodney S. Basler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Basler, Papillion, arts and sciences, 8.733.

Pamela Jo Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Harris, Arlington, Va., arts and sciences, 8.733.

David E. Rybin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rybin, 5001 So. 20th, Omaha, arts and sciences, 8.733.

Mary Elizabeth Schuldt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Schuldt, South Sioux City, arts and sciences, 8.733.

Lloyed R. Reeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Reeder, Shelton, agriculture, 8.722.

Richard S. Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Elliott, Weeping Water, arts and sciences, 3.714.

Knight Prepares Power Amendment

Sen. John Knight of Lincoln will ask the Legislature Thursday to amend pending power legislation to take the proposed new state electric grid system out of the retail business by Jan. 1, 1973, except in cases approved by the Nebraska Power Review Board.

Knight has prepared an amendment to LB789, a bill authorizing cities to contract with power districts without a vote of the people.

To Settle Dispute

LB764, the measure proposing establishment of the new consolidated grid, declares intent that the grid divest itself of retail operations by 1973.

Knight's proposal would permit retail service beyond Jan. 1, 1973, only upon a Power Board finding that "unnecessary hardship" would result to the residents of a municipality if it is not served at retail by the grid system.

The Power Board could act only upon application of a municipality now served by a member of the grid, and only after hearing.

Members of the new grid would be Consumers Public Power District, Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District and Loup River Public Power District.

The board could authorize retail service by the grid "until such time as similar service can be provided to the municipality by a non-grid power agency without unnecessary hardship to the residents of the municipality."

Knight said the question of continued retail service by the grid should be submitted to a third party, namely the Power Board.

"It should not be up to the municipality or the grid," he said.

"Granted that there may be some hardship cases, this will permit them to be served by the grid. But the Power Board will be able to follow through with the intent expressed in LB764."

Companion Bill To LB920 OKd By Committee

The Legislature's Government Committee Wednesday agreed to introduce a bill that would permit county boards to pay their August bills even though they might not set their mill levies until September.

The bill would be a companion measure to LB920, which would move back from Aug. 2 to Sept. 2 the mill-setting deadline of the state board of equalization should the Legislature not pass all appropriation bills by the end of this month.

County boards do not set their mill levies until the state board completes its equalization task. Government Committee Chairman Jerome Warner said the delay would work a financial hardship on many county boards.

Neither LB920 nor the new measure will be enacted if the Legislature completes its business in time.

YOUNG GUESTS

enjoy traditional party

The neighbors in the vicinity of 2215 So. 35th St., believe that there has to be a special place in heaven for someone like Mrs. Guy Drummett. But if you should ask Mrs. Drummett she will tell you that 'heaven' is her own immediate neighborhood—including the younger generation or perhaps we should say ESPECIALLY the younger generation.

Yesterday Mrs. Drummett again was hostess to all of the children in the neighborhood who were 10 years old and younger. The older ones were cordially invited but the teenagers all seem to be careering this summer.

Mrs. Drummett's association with neighborhood children is of long standing—let's say about 46 years long. It was 46 years ago that Mrs. Drummett resided on Fifteenth Street, and her love for children was apparent even then. Somehow she and the children of the neighborhood combined to form a 'True Workers' organization. The club's project was to gather clothes, shoes and a few necessities for needy families. The gathering was done one week and delivery the next.

Then came the move to Thirty-fifth Street—and more children—and more projects of one kind and another.

For instance, there was the young lad who was particularly interested in journalism. Mrs. Drummett helped him start a neighborhood newspaper. Since she was his only staff member it was her responsibility to get the news and the little boy's job was to print it on his little printing press. We might add that the little boy, now a mature man, followed the newspaper profession and now is editor of a Texas newspaper.

Mrs. Drummett has given a party for neighborhood children for the better part of 46 years. There was a recess for a year or two when there was illness in her home, but the tradition didn't die.

At the very back are Raymond Thompson, Mrs. Drummett, John Winkler and hidden, Connie Hall.

Opening lead — seven of spades.

Suppose someone offers you a bet where you can't lose, you might win, and the worst that can happen is that you break even.

Presumably you'd grab such a bet, since you seldom gets offers with everything to gain and nothing to lose.

Occasionally situations arise in bridge which are of a similar nature. The setup may be such that you can gain a trick by making a certain play, and at the same time have no corresponding chance to lose one.

Suppose you're declarer at six spades on this deal and West leads a trump. You're off to a bad start right away, since if West had led anything else, you would have been able to make the hand quite easily by ruffing two hearts in dummy.

But there're no use crying over spilt milk, so let's say you win the spade with the nine, ruff a diamond, cash the A-K of hearts, ruff a heart with the king, and then ruff another diamond.

You then draw two rounds of trumps, at which time you come to the crucial point of the hand. You might feel tempted to take a club finesse at this point, or draw several more rounds of trumps before taking a club finesse, but either method of play would be wrong. You would have only about a fifty-fifty chance of making the contract if you did this.

Instead you should lead a heart. This play cannot cost anything, but it might — and in the actual case does —make the slam. East happens to have the queen and is forced to return a diamond or a club into dummy's pair of A-Q's. As a result, you make twelve tricks.

It is true that if West had the queen the heart play would not have accomplished a thing but, just the same, you took advantage of a situation where you had everything to gain and nothing to lose.

Bride-Elect Is Honored

In prenuptial courtesy to Miss Judy Keys, whose marriage to Robert Porter of Denver will take place on Aug. 6, Mrs. Arthur George was hostess at a brunch last Thursday morning at her home.

The guest list included the members of a bridge club to which the bride's mother, Mrs. Donald Keys belongs. Following the brunch Miss Keys was presented with a one-gift shower.

Before returning to Lincoln from Aurora, Colo., where she was a member of the North Junior High School faculty, Miss Keys was complimented at a surprise party and miscellaneous shower for which Miss Ruth Wright was hostess at her home. The guest list included the teachers at North Junior High.

ABBY

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A "Heartbroken Mother" is crying because her 19-year-old son hated school, didn't attend half his classes, and finally flunked out. "Where have we failed?" she asks you. Maybe she should ask herself, as a parent, "To whom is a college education important?" Just because it is important to the parents, does that mean it must be important to their son? It's time for parents to accept their youngsters for what they are. No wonder the boy didn't go to half his classes. He hated school. It was HIS life, and his parents shouldn't have tried to live it for him.

I once heard of a youngster, attending college, who wasn't as brilliant as his college educated parents. One day they came home and found their good-looking son with a bullet hole in his head. Beside him was a suicide note which read, "I couldn't stand for you and Dad to see my grades."

BATON ROUGE READER

DEAR READER: Excessive pressure for "good grades" when applied to emotionally unstable youngsters is dangerous and uncalled for. Normal, healthy people learn to face and deal with failure from the time they're old enough to compete. This problem calls for particulars, not generalizations.

The neighbors in the vicinity of 2215 So. 35th St., believe that there has to be a special place in heaven for someone like Mrs. Guy Drummett. But if you should ask Mrs. Drummett she will tell you that 'neaven' is her own immediate neighborhood—including the younger generation or perhaps we should say ESPECIALLY the younger generation.

Yesterday Mrs. Drummett again was hostess to all of the children in the neighborhood who were 10 years old and younger. The older ones were cordially invited but the teenagers all seem to be careering this summer.

Mrs. Drummett's association with neighborhood children is of long standing—let's say about 46 years long. It was 46 years ago that Mrs. Drummett resided on Fifteenth Street, and her love for children was apparent even then. Somehow she and the children of the neighborhood combined to form a 'True Workers' organization. The club's project was to gather clothes, shoes and a few necessities for needy families. The gathering was done one week and delivery the next.

Then came the move to Thirty-fifth Street—and more children—and more projects of one kind and another.

For instance, there was the young lad who was particularly interested in journalism. Mrs. Drummett helped him start a neighborhood newspaper. Since she was his only staff member it was her responsibility to get the news and the little boy's job was to print it on his little printing press. We might add that the little boy, now a mature man, followed the newspaper profession and now is editor of a Texas newspaper.

Mrs. Drummett has given a party for neighborhood children for the better part of 46 years. There was a recess for a year or two when there was illness in her home, but the tradition didn't die.

At the very back are Raymond Thompson, Mrs. Drummett, John Winkler and hidden, Connie Hall.

Opening lead — seven of spades.

Suppose someone offers you a bet where you can't lose, you might win, and the worst that can happen is that you break even.

Presumably you'd grab such a bet, since you seldom gets offers with everything to gain and nothing to lose.

Occasionally situations arise in bridge which are of a similar nature. The setup may be such that you can gain a trick by making a certain play, and at the same time have no corresponding chance to lose one.

Suppose you're declarer at six spades on this deal and West leads a trump. You're off to a bad start right away, since if West had led anything else, you would have been able to make the hand quite easily by ruffing two hearts in dummy.

But there're no use crying over spilt milk, so let's say you win the spade with the nine, ruff a diamond, cash the A-K of hearts, ruff a heart with the king, and then ruff another diamond.

You then draw two rounds of trumps, at which time you come to the crucial point of the hand. You might feel tempted to take a club finesse at this point, or draw several more rounds of trumps before taking a club finesse, but either method of play would be wrong. You would have only about a fifty-fifty chance of making the contract if you did this.

Instead you should lead a heart. This play cannot cost anything, but it might — and in the actual case does —make the slam. East happens to have the queen and is forced to return a diamond or a club into dummy's pair of A-Q's. As a result, you make twelve tricks.

It is true that if West had the queen the heart play would not have accomplished a thing but, just the same, you took advantage of a situation where you had everything to gain and nothing to lose.

Bride-Elect Is Honored

In prenuptial courtesy to Miss Judy Keys, whose marriage to Robert Porter of Denver will take place on Aug. 6, Mrs. Arthur George was hostess at a brunch last Thursday morning at her home.

The guest list included the members of a bridge club to which the bride's mother, Mrs. Donald Keys belongs. Following the brunch Miss Keys was presented with a one-gift shower.

Before returning to Lincoln from Aurora, Colo., where she was a member of the North Junior High School faculty, Miss Keys was complimented at a surprise party and miscellaneous shower for which Miss Ruth Wright was hostess at her home. The guest list included the teachers at North Junior High.

ABBY

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A "Heartbroken Mother" is crying because her 19-year-old son hated school, didn't attend half his classes, and finally flunked out. "Where have we failed?" she asks you. Maybe she should ask herself, as a parent, "To whom is a college education important?" Just because it is important to the parents, does that mean it must be important to their son? It's time for parents to accept their youngsters for what they are. No wonder the boy didn't go to half his classes. He hated school. It was HIS life, and his parents shouldn't have tried to live it for him.

I once heard of a youngster, attending college, who wasn't as brilliant as his college educated parents. One day they came home and found their good-looking son with a bullet hole in his head. Beside him was a suicide note which read, "I couldn't stand for you and Dad to see my grades."

BATON ROUGE READER

DEAR READER: Excessive pressure for "good grades" when applied to emotionally unstable youngsters is dangerous and uncalled for. Normal, healthy people learn to face and deal with failure from the time they're old enough to compete. This problem calls for particulars, not generalizations.

TALK around the town NEWS of the suburban areas

There's a little of this and that in the news this ayem—There is news of guests —some here, some coming—There are parties—one past—one future—plus a little chatter about the Junior League and its puppets.

* * *

Let's talk first about a young visitor —Lyle Wieland—who has been and gone and is back again.

The young Miss Wieland came from Chicago for a visit with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Holland and Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Wieland—But mainly she came to join her father, Dr. Richard Wieland for an exciting trip to California and Disneyland. We might add that this is the second time the young lady and her father have done Disneyland, and we'll wager it won't be the last visit to that fascinating place.

Anyway, Lyle willbe joined in Lincoln quite soon—perhaps next week—by her mother, Mrs. Lynn Wieland of Chicago.

* * *

We have other guests from Chicago to mention, also—Mrs. Don Strahan — daughter Debbie; son David, and twins Peggy and Patricia, arrived a few days ago from Chicago to spend two weeks as the guests of Mrs. Strahan's mother, Mrs. Maxwell Baskins.

On Wednesday morning Mrs. Baskins complimented her daughter when she entertained a small group of guests at a coffee at her home.

* * *

Another party to mention this morning is the supper for which Dr. and Mrs. Fred Webster and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Swanson will be hosts and hostesses next Tuesday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Webster, when they pay courtesy to Miss Susan Cole and her fiance, William Wright, whose marriage will take place on Thursday, Sept. 9. The guest list will include the members of a bridge club to which the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack R. Cole, belong. A one-gift shower will be presented to the honorees.

* * *

We seemed to have detoured from the topic of guests—but we're back on the beaten path and can tell you that some young ladies are due to arrive from New Canaan, Conn., on Aug. 16. They are the Misses Paula and Cindy Cather, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Myers Cather, formerly of Lincoln, and they will be the house guests of their grandarents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Cather.

* * *

But before Aug. 16 comes Aug. 6, and that is the date that Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Irvin and their two children, Cathy and Rob, will be coming from Indianapolis, Ind., to spend a weekend as the guests of Mr. Irvin's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Eames Irving.

In Suburbia this morning you will find 50,000 gallons of gas, half of that amount being ethyl and the other half of course regular, and you will discover 200,000 newly purchased car tires. Now why all of these discoveries? Well, when one travels as many miles as many of our Park Manor friends have lately you can expect to use up some outrageous amount of gas and wear out a set of tires —almost—anyway.

But for the travel news, which includes most of the surrounding states, we will tell you about some of the Park Manor vacationers.

PARK MANOR

What can you do in 18 days? Quite a bit, according to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Goshen—In fact, the two found it possible to visit five families in five towns extending from Denver, Colo. to Richview, Ill. But first things first. So to Denver where four of the 18 days were spent. The traveling twosome were the house guests of Mrs. Glennie Haller while in Denver, and we might mention that the three spent a day in the mountains picnicking —Now to the next stop which was Rockaway Beach, Mo. and here Mr. and Mrs. Goshen were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Don Tangeman at their newly acquired motel. Mr. and Mrs. Tangeman are former Lincoln and Park Manor residents. On now to Bloomfield, Mo. and this time we must mention Mrs. Goshen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Doerschlen who were the hosts. The next stop for the travelers was St. Louis, Mo. and a brief visit with Mr. Goshen's aunt, Miss Erma Goshen. The final stop was made in Richview, Ill. at the home of Mr. Edwin Goshen. The couple returned home last Saturday.

WEDGEWOOD MANOR

Someone in Wedgewood Manor also celebrated a birthday last week. Kevin Crook, son of Dr. and Mrs. Jon Crook, had a seventh birthday party on Tuesday, July 6.

Announcement Is Made Of Bridal Attendants

An August bride-elect, Miss Judy Hensley, whose marriage to Robert Schultz will take place on Saturday, Aug. 14, makes announcement this morning of the bridal attendants.

As her maid of honor Miss Hensley has chosen her sister, Miss Patricia Hensley, and the foursome of bridesmaids will include Miss Barbara Schultz, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Lana Eikelberry, and Miss Patricia McClymont of Holdrege. Miss Karen Bush and Mrs. Robert C. Dobson will light the candles and the flower girls will be Jan Markus and Jill Schrier.

Peter Schultz will serve his brother as best man, and seating the guests will be Gary Amerman, Harry Andrews, Robert Dobson, Joe Herrod and Dr. Jon Taylor.

FOOD

whether 'cake' or 'tart'--they're good

According to "Larousse Gastronomique," the name Couque or Koucke is applied to a variety of cakes made from a brioche-type dough filled with raisins or other fruit. Although the French call it a cake, a Couque is actually more like a fruit tart made with yeast-raised pastry.

After some experimenting with these little French pastries someone came up with a new version—Pear Couques. They're made with an egg-rich yeast batter which is pressed into deep pie dishes (10-ounce glass dishes resembling large custard cups). A canned pear half is centered in each dish and topped with a cinnamon-crumb mixture. After baking the Couques should be served warm, topped with whipped cream if desired, just like any other fruit tart.

COUQUES

Makes 12 tarts

- ½ cup warm water (105-115 degrees)
- 1 package or cake yeast, active dry or compressed
- 2 cups unsifted flour
- ½ cup (1 stick) butter or margarine, melted
- 3 eggs, beaten
- ¼ cup sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 12 pear halves (2- one-pound cans), drained
- ¼ cup unsifted flour
- ¼ cup dark brown sugar, firmly packed
- ¼ cup (½ stick) butter or margarine
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg
- Whipped cream (optional)

Measure warm water into a large warm bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Stir in ½ cup flour. Cover; let rise in a warm place, free from draft, about ½ hour.

Blend in remaining 1½ cups flour, ½ cup melted butter or margarine, eggs, ¼ cup sugar and salt. Beat until well blended. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Stir batter down, cover and refrigerate at least 2 hours. Grease twelve 10-ounce deep pie dishes. Place about ¼ cup of batter in each dish. Using well floured hands, pat mixture around dishes, bringing it about 1-inch up the side of each dish. Place a pear half, cut side up, in each dish. Combine remaining ¼ cup flour, brown sugar, ¼ cup Fleischmann's Margarine, cinnamon and nutmeg. Sprinkle topping over pears. Let rise, uncovered, free from draft, for ½ hour.

Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) about 15 minutes, or until done. Remove from dishes.

Try Shrimp Tahiti Style

The bluest ocean pounding on the whitest beaches, luxuriant tropical foliage and fragrant breezes are not the only features of Tahiti. This Polynesian paradise is also noted for its superb native cuisine.

Outside of the tourist hotels, Tahitian cookery is based largely on native foods: fish and shellfish, coconut, pineapple and other locally-grown fruits and vegetables. A popular Island specialty, fried shrimp in coconut, serves as the inspiration for this peanut-coated Shrimp Tahitian. It is made with butterflied shrimp, dipped in batter then rolled in chopped dry roasted peanuts and deep-fried. The result is delectable morsels with crispy golden brown peanuts outside, tender-pink shrimp within.

Serve Tahitian Shrimp in the Oriental manner with bowls of curry condiments: whole dry roasted peanuts, chopped green pepper, lemon wedges, or grated coconut are a few suggestions.

TAHITIAN SHRIMP

(Makes 15-20 shrimp)

- 1 pound large shrimp, peeled and deveined
- 1 egg
- 1 cup flour
- ¾ cup milk
- roasted peanuts
- Peanut Oil

Peel and devein shrimp. Slit each shrimp down the back without separating the halves; press flat, like a butterfly. Combine egg, flour and milk; beat well. Dip shrimp in batter, then in chopped peanuts. Fry in deep hot (375 degrees F.) peanut oil for 5 to 8 minutes.

FOOD

whether 'cake' or 'tart'--they're good

According to "Larousse Gastronomique," the name Couque or Koucke is applied to a variety of cakes made from a brioche-type dough filled with raisins or other fruit. Although the French call it a cake, a Couque is actually more like a fruit tart made with yeast-raised pastry.

After some experimenting with these little French pastries someone came up with a new version—Pear Couques. They're made with an egg-rich yeast batter which is pressed into deep pie dishes (10-ounce glass dishes resembling large custard cups). A canned pear half is centered in each dish and topped with a cinnamon-crumb mixture. After baking the Couques should be served warm, topped with whipped cream if desired, just like any other fruit tart.

COUQUES

Makes 12 tarts

½ cup warm water (105-115 degrees)
1 package or cake yeast, active dry or compressed
2 cups unsifted flour
½ cup (1 stick) butter or margarine, melted
3 eggs, beaten
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
12 pear halves (2- one-pound cans), drained
¼ cup unsifted flour
¼ cup dark brown sugar, firmly packed
¼ cup (½ stick) butter or margarine
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
Whipped cream (optional)

Measure warm water into a large warm bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Stir in ½ cup flour. Cover; let rise in a warm place, free from draft, about ½ hour.

Blend in remaining 1½ cups flour, ½ cup melted butter or margarine, eggs, ¼ cup sugar and salt. Beat until well blended. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Stir batter down, cover and refrigerate at least 2 hours. Grease twelve 10-ounce deep pie dishes. Place about ¼ cup of batter in each dish. Using well floured hands, pat mixture around dishes, bringing it about 1-inch up the side of each dish. Place a pear half, cut side up, in each dish. Combine remaining ¼ cup flour, brown sugar, ¼ cup Fleischmann's Margarine, cinnamon and nutmeg. Sprinkle topping over pears. Let rise, uncovered, free from draft, for ½ hour.

Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) about 15 minutes, or until done. Remove from dishes.

Escalate Viet 'Ends' Asks Ford

Washington (AP) — House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan urged President Johnson Wednesday night to "escalate not means alone—but the ends for which we fight" in Viet Nam.

"Is it enough to say that we are fighting to get the enemy to come to a conference table?" Ford asked and then commented:

"The enemy himself is fighting for well-defined objectives. He wants to drive us out of Viet Nam, conquer the people and dominate the land . . .

'Vital Interests'

"If we are to defeat this enemy objective, we too must define our goals in Viet Nam. Our military commitment has increased. Now the President must detail the vital interests we are fighting for in that part of the world."

Ford, in a prepared speech to the Captive Nations Assembly at the National Press Club, struck out at what he called "irresponsible critics" of the President's Viet Nam policy. And including a reference to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y. although he did not mention Kennedy by name, Ford said:

"(Red Chinese leader) Mao hears vague talk of 'political solutions' and de-escalation—from a U.S. senator who not long ago occupied a powerful policy making position in our government. And, he too is a member of the President's political family."

Senate Speech

Kennedy, Attorney General under the administration of the late John F. Kennedy, his brother, recently made a Senate speech in which de-escalation was explored regarding Viet Nam.

Ford said: "Along with the President, we wonder what some of these recommendations mean. But Mao believes he knows their meaning. To him and his allies, they mean America is divided. To Mao and his allies they mean that his country will abandon its policy of firmness in Viet Nam."

Ford said Johnson "need not fear that the opposition party will ever undercut his efforts to be firm against Communist aggression in Viet Nam, or elsewhere . . . We will always put national interest above narrow partisan interests."

Judge's Son Cleared Of Homicide

New York (UPI) — Gareth Martinis, controversial son of a judge, walked out of court a free man Wednesday — cleared of legal responsibility in the automobile deaths of five persons after two years, two trials and dozens of other legal proceedings.

Three colleagues of Martinis' father's took only five minutes at his first trial on charges of reckless and drunken driving to find him innocent. That decision raised such a storm of public indignation that the state immediately forged ahead with plans for a second trial.

Despite defense contentions it would place him in double jeopardy, Martinis was taken to trial again on five counts of vehicular homicide. Last Thursday, the jury was dismissed after reporting it was hopelessly deadlocked.

Power Authority Bill Sent To Floor

The Legislature's Public Works Committee Wednesday amended and advanced to the floor, 6-0, a bill ensuring that the Nebraska Power Review Board has authority over wholesale as well as retail public power operations.

Proponents of the bill say the bill clarifies that the board has this authority. Opponents say the bill extends authority to the board.

LB289 also clarifies certain procedures of the Power Review Board, which was created in 1963 to settle disputes between our districts.

Among the amendments approved just before the bill was sent from committee were:

—Providing that after a hearing before the Power Review Board, an opportunity shall be given to submit written rebuttal.

—Removing the necessity for a hearing if no objections are filed to an application before the board. This doesn't apply to applications affecting retail service areas.

Governor Signs Resolution Supporting Right To Work

Gov. Frank Morrison said Wednesday he has signed a resolution passed by the Legislature which puts Nebraska lawmakers on record as opposed to repeal of Section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The section permits states to enact so-called right-to-work or "anti-closed shop" laws designed to prevent compulsive unionism, and Nebraska is one of 19 states with such a law.

"It was just a formality," Morrison said of his signing of the resolution. He has held the position that states should have the right to enact anti-closed shop statutes if they desire.

Copies of the resolution, LB-60, were mailed to Nebraska's congressional delegation. President Johnson has recommended repeal of Section 14-B.

Right-to-work laws, strongly opposed by organized labor, prevent employers from requiring membership in a union as a condition for employment. Nebraska's law was enacted in 1946.

Fire Hits Freighter

Toronto (AP) — Fire swept the 15,000-ton Greek freighter Orient Trader. Because of intense heat firemen were unable to board the boat at Pier 11 and she was towed to mid-harbor where a fireboat went to work. The flames were fed by rubber in the hold.

THREE APPLICATIONS ON FILE FOR ETV CHANNEL IN ALLIANCE

The general manager of the Nebraska Educational Television Commission, Jack McBride reported Wednesday that the commission has on file in Washington, D.C., three applications for establishment of ETV Channel 13 at Alliance.

McBride said federal approval of the applications is expected late this fall, with construction of channel facilities to begin next spring. He said programming probably will begin in the summer of 1966.

McBride said the commission has filed an application with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for federal funds totaling $187,789 to help finance construction of a tower, transmitter building and transmitter equipment. State funds for the project are expected to total $357,144, he said.

McBride said applications with the Federal Communications Commission for a construction permit and with the Federal Aviation Agency for tower clearance are also on file.

The 1,499-foot tower will be located near Angora southeast of Alliance and will beam a signal throughout the Panhandle area.

"Federal officials have given preliminary review to our plans and everything seems in good shape," McBride said. "I don't think there's any problems involved in gaining federal approval."

Department Will Cost $286,886

Creation of a new Department of Administrative Services will cost $262,886 in state tax funds, it was estimated Wednesday.

Funding of the new department was included in amendments to LB922, the Budget Committee's second major appropriations bill. Twenty-seven committee amendments were adopted Wednesday.

Total gross fiscal impact of the amendments was pegged at $1,030,572 in additional appropriations.

General fund increases were $561,120, but $633,000 in general fund hikes result from a fund simplification bill which transfers money among funds. Actual total impact on the general fund: a $72,000 reduction.

Fiscal impact on cash funds was an increase of $469,452. With the fund simplification transfer, it actually involves a boost of $1,102,585.

When the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel put seven ferries out of service in 1964, four of the big vessels were transferred to a new line between the resort cities of Cape May, N.J., and Lewes, Del.

Power Authority Bill Sent To Floor

The Legislature's Public Works Committee Wednesday amended and advanced to the floor, 6-0, a bill ensuring that the Nebraska Power Review Board has authority over wholesale as well as retail public power operations

Proponents of the bill say the bill clarifies that the board has this authority. Opponents say the bill extends authority to the board.

LB289 also clarifies certain procedures of the Power Review Board which was created in 1963 to settle disputes between our districts.

Among the amendments approved just before the bill was sent from committee were.

—Providing that after a hearing before the Power Review Board, an opportunity shall be given to submit written rebuttal

—Removing the necessity for a hearing if no objections are filed to an application before the board. This doesn't apply to applications affecting retail service areas.

—Deleting the authority of the board over lines less than 15,000 volts in capacity and three miles in length.

Courageous Woman Finishes Voyage

Honolulu (AP)—A courageous, blonde widow—one woman against the sea—finished a wind-plagued 40-day crossing of 2,300 miles of the Pacific from California Wednesday in a 25-foot sailboat. Her only companion was a pet Thailand Turtle.

Mrs. Sharon Sites, 34, displayed raw daring by taking no radio and no fuel for her engine.

In the end, she had a broken wrist and had to call for a Coast Guard tow while only a mile off the coast of Oahu.

"I ran into strong winds between June 24 and 29," she sent word ahead by Coast Guard relay.

"I had to latch everything down, hang on for dear life, and pray."

The dental secretary had learned to sail five months ago, quit her job and invested her savings of $9,000 in the sloop, Sea Sharp.

"There isn't another girl in five million—and there aren't many men—who would attempt this voyage alone," lauded her Los Angeles instructor, Al Adams.

"She was quite touched that many brought packaged food for her turtle," Adams said.

Mrs. Sites also carried enough water for 90 days.

But she felt confident enough to do without a radio. And she sacrificed fuel in the interests of more help by the winds.

The journey began from Los Angeles June 12.

Too Much Rain After Drought Hurts Wheat

By The Associated Press

Early this year farmers and ranchers in Nebraska's southern panhandle shook their heads and muttered pesimistically about a year of drought in the making.

Not any more.

Take the Sidney area. A weather observer there said Wednesday that until the middle of May the area had the worst dry spell since the 30s.

Then it started to rain and in the last two months there has been 10 inches of rain in the area and wheat growers are now hard put to get their crop in before rusts cut it down.

In the Harrisburg area there was a heavy downpour Tuesday night that sent Pumpkin Creek on a rampage with the result that Wednesday morning the creek was a block wide in spots.

Jack Barnard, Kimball County civil defense director, who flew over the Banner County area Wednesday reported back that hay was floating "all over the place."

Eastern and central Nebraska likewise have been deluged with rain with downpours Sunday night and Monday up to nearly five inches. Earlier rains in some areas washed out corn fields and the more recent ones have held back crop growth.

Remember—it was just a few short months ago that Gov. Frank Morrison was firing off requests to Washington for designation of many Nebraska counties as drought disaster areas.

BEATING THE SUN

Astronaut Charles (Pete) Conrad wears a straw hat and space suit during training exercises in the Gulf of Mexico Wednesday. Conrad and Gordon Cooper are scheduled for the Gemini 5 flight in August.

CORE Leader Farmer Is Sued By Policeman

Newark, N.J. (UPI) — A white Newark policeman who shot a Negro and became the target of Negro demonstrations has filed suit against civil rights leader James Farmer for slander, libel and interference with the policeman's right to work, it was disclosed Wednesday night.

Newark patrolman Henry Martinez, who shot and killed Lester Long on June 12 when Long allegedly pulled a knife on him, has also named the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and nine other individuals and civil rights groups in his suit.

The suit came to light when Farmer, who is national director of CORE, was handed a subpoena by an employe of the Essex County sheriff's office when Farmer appeared here for a demonstration.

Farmer led the demonstration, a mass rally by Negroes and others seeking a civilian police review board.

The subpoena ordered Farmer to appear in Essex County court within 20 days to answer the civil action.

CORE's demands for a civilian review board to hear complaints of police brutality gained impetus when Martinez killed Long after the policeman had stopped Long for a traffic offense.

Negroes demanded that Martinez be suspended and he was. But the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association (PBA), police line organization, picketed city hall 24 hours a day in protest against the suspension with policemen from Newark and other cities, including New York.

Kenney comes to the chamber from Lincoln where he served the Midwest Life Insurance Company as director of advertising and promotion and was an officer of the company. He succeeds Frank P. Grant who has been named advertising and ticket promotion manager for the Omaha Mustangs of the Professional Football League of America.

Kansas Firm Low Bidder On Reservoir

Carrothers Construction Co. of Paola, Kan., is the apparent low bidder for work on a 10 million gallon underground reservoir and pumping station to be built at 77th and Vine.

Carothers bid $1,364,572 on the project, compared to $1,479,544 by Interstate Construction, Inc., of Kansas City, Kan.; Olson Construction Co., $1,457,264 and Dobson Bros. Construction, $1,663,129.

Other bids received by the city Wednesday:

For the southeast pumping station, to be located at 84th and South, Kingery Construction Co. was the apparent low bidder at $215,230, followed by Tippit Construction of Paola, Kansas, at $218,500 and Olson Construction, $226,241.

Kingery was also low bidder for the Belmont pumping station, 14th and Superior, at $216,200. Tippit bid $219,680, Olson, $230,687.

On a storm sewer project in the vicinity of High St., 42nd and Curtis Drive, low bidder was H. R. Bookstrom, $19,982, compared to N. L. Cole, $20,687 and Dobson Bros., $21,569.

For the annual purchase of 8,000 traffic violation ticket books, Victor Business Forms submitted the apparent low bid of $3,315. Moore Business Forms at $5,308.19 was the only other bidder.

ABC Electric Co. submitted the low bid of $11,375 to install a traffic signal system at 13th and M. Commonwealth Electric bid $11,730.

Courageous Woman Finishes Voyage

Honolulu (AP)—A courageous, blonde widow—one woman against the sea—finished a wind-plagued 40-day crossing of 2,300 miles of the Pacific from California Wednesday in a 25-foot sailboat. Her only companion was a pet Thailand Turtle.

Mrs. Sharon Sites, 34, displayed raw daring by taking no radio and no fuel for her engine.

In the end, she had a broken wrist and had to call for a Coast Guard tow while only a mile off the coast of Oahu.

"I ran into strong winds between June 24 and 29," she sent word ahead by Coast Guard relay.

"I had to latch everything down, hang on for dear life, and pray."

The dental secretary had learned to sail five months ago, quit her job and invested her savings of $9,000 in the sloop, Sea Sharp.

"There isn't another girl in five million—and there aren't many men—who would attempt this voyage alone," lauded her Los Angeles instructor, Al Adams.

"She was quite touched that many brought packaged food for her turtle," Adams said.

Mrs. Sites also carried enough water for 90 days.

But she felt confident enough to do without a radio. And she sacrificed fuel in the interests of more help by the winds.

The journey began from Los Angeles June 12.

Too Much Rain After Drought Hurts Wheat

By The Associated Press

Early this year farmers and ranchers in Nebraska's southern panhandle shook their heads and muttered pesimistically about a year of drought in the making.

Not any more.

Take the Sidney area. A weather observer there said Wednesday that until the middle of May the area had the worst dry spell since the 30s.

Then it started to rain and in the last two months there has been 10 inches of rain in the area and wheat growers are now hard put to get their crop in before rusts cut it down.

In the Harrisburg area there was a heavy downpour Tuesday night that sent Pumpkin Creek on a rampage with the result that Wednesday morning the creek was a block wide in spots.

Jack Barnard, Kimball County civil defense director, who flew over the Banner County area Wednesday reported back that hay was floating "all over the place."

Eastern and central Nebraska likewise have been deluged with rain with downpours Sunday night and Monday up to nearly five inches. Earlier rains in some areas washed out corn fields and the more recent ones have held back crop growth.

Remember—it was just a few short months ago that Gov. Frank Morrison was firing off requests to Washington for designation of many Nebraska counties as drought disaster areas.

CORE Leader Farmer Is Sued By Policeman

Newark, N.J. (UPI) — A white Newark policeman who shot a Negro and became the target of Negro demonstrations has filed suit against civil rights leader James Farmer for slander, libel and interference with the policeman's right to work, it was disclosed Wednesday night.

Newark patrolman Henry Martinez, who shot and killed Lester Long on June 12 when Long allegedly pulled a knife on him, has also named the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and nine other individuals and civil rights groups in his suit.

The suit came to light when Farmer, who is national director of CORE, was handed a subpoena by an employe of the Essex County sheriff's office when Farmer appeared here for a demonstration.

Farmer led the demonstration, a mass rally by Negroes and others seeking a civilian police review board

The subpoena ordered Farmer to appear in Essex County court within 20 days to answer the civil action.

CORE's demands for a civilian review board to hear complaints of police brutality gained impetus when Martinez killed Long after the policeman had stopped Long for a traffic offense.

Negroes demanded that Martinez be suspended and he was. But the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association (PBA), police line organization, picketed city hall 24 hours a day in protest against the suspension with policemen from Newark and other cities, including New York.

Myrtle Red Easily Wins $1,300 Sowers Purse

. . . IN FAIRGROUNDS FEATURE

By BARRY BURKHART
Star Sports Writer

Myrtle Red claimed an easy victory in the $1,300 Sowers Purse feature race Wednesday at the Nebraska State Fairgrounds track which was slow because of morning showers.

The winner, a 2-1 co-favorite with Conga Ruler, took an early lead and sprinted away in the stretch to beat Conga Ruler by 2¼ lengths. The latter ran well back in the pack until the final turn then came on well in the stretch.

Myrtle Red paid $6.20, $3.00 and $2.80; Conga Ruler returned $3.20 and $2.80, with Wee Bomb $3.20 to show.

Five of the eight race winners returned more than $10—$31.40 being the top win payment of the day.

Bonigan returned $31.40, $9.00 and $4.20 with her win in the third race. Bonigan sprinted to long lead from the gate and coasted to a 4½ length victory over show horse Strike It Rich. The latter returned $7.60 and $5.60. Small Byrd finished third, 2¼ lengths behind, and paid $4.20.

C.A. Gem (No. 10) and M.H. Van Berg's Chic Dick (No. 5) combined wins in the first and second races respectively to pay a daily double of $60.60.

Neither winner had much difficulty in posting its victory. C.A. Gem, ridden by leading jockey Fred Ecoffey, took the lead on the inside in the backstretch, held off two challengers and pulled away in the stretch, winning by 2¾ lengths over Fast Host.

Chic Dick, jockeyed by Fred Hare, was never far off the pace before going to the rail in the final turn and taking the lead in the stretch.

The track attendance of 4,270 was up from a year ago at the same time for the tenth consecutive day. Mutuel handle was up $15,849 at $184,690.

PRISCILLA'S ON A SPREE

Well it was muggy out at the Fairgrounds again Wednesday.

I'm still sitting on my camp stool in front of a fan.

Priscilla

(Wednesday Aunt Priscilla picked two losers reducing her spree fund to $85.40.)

Roberts Ousts Colts In American Legion Meet

. . . OPTIMISTS EDGE WITT'S, 4-3

By TOM HENDERSON
Star Sports Writer

Steve Mitchell pitched hitless ball through six innings as Roberts coasted to a 8-0 American Legion Junior district baseball tournament victory over the LAFB Colts Wednesday night at Sherman Field. The defeat eliminates the Colts from further tourney play.

The Lincoln Optimists, made it two in a row in district play, outlasting Ken Witt's, 4-3, in Wednesday night's opener. The Witt's loss was its first in six games against Lincoln competition. It had a 10-4 season record.

Mitchell, who boosted his won-loss mark for the season to 5-1, scattered four walks in the first three innings, but didn't allow any other Colt runners to reach base, as he breezed into the seventh with a comfortable 5-0 advantage.

He then gave up a lead-off single to Colt second-sacker Mike Humphreys, before retiring the side. Humphreys' single was the only hit off the red-headed righthander.

Roberts mopped up the remaining Colt hitters, also allowing only one hit in his two-inning stint. Roberts, however, had control trouble, bouncing baseballs off two opposing batters.

Roberts touched Colt starter Mike Lee for two runs in the fourth, when Tom Kos singled in Kip Deitemeyer and Doug Dworak from third and second respectively.

Mitchell fanned 11 Colts in his seven innings of work, giving up only the four early walks, in gaining the win. Lee took the loss for the Colts, giving up seven runs, six earned, while striking out five and walking four.

Tom Ochsner was given a three-run cushion by the Optimists in the second inning and pitched out of a bases-loaded jam in the bottom of the ninth as he registered his sixth win in the opener.

Ochsner, who gave up only four singles, was troubled by wildness but pitched his way out of trouble on numerous occasions.

Wild pitches which sent runners from second to third base aided Witt's as they scored single runs in the sixth and seventh innings.

Tonight the Optmists will meet Gerry's, winner over Roberts in Tuesday's first-round action, at 6 p.m., while Witt's will face Roberts at 8 p.m. in the loser's bracket of the double elimination tournament.

ASTLEFORD GARNERS LEAD

71 Best Score In First Round

. . . IN MEN'S STATE TOURNEY

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Writer

Defending champion Bob Astleford, seeking his fourth straight championship, shot the only sub-par round with a 71 to take the first round lead Wednesday in the Nebraska State Men's Amateur Golf Tournament at the Lincoln Country Club.

Two Lincoln Country Club golfers—Matt Taber and Dick Spangler Jr.—played even par to trail by one stroke going into Thursday's second 18 holes of the 72-hole medal play tournament.

Astleford played steady golf after opening with a bogey-5 on the first hole when his second shot caught an overhanging tree limb near the green.

The burly Omahan didn't have to rely on his familiar scrambling style Wednesday, hitting 15 greens in regulation and missing only a couple of fairways.

"I was on far more greens than I am accustomed to," he pointed out. "I was just knocking it straight down the fairway and right up on the green," Astleford chuckled.

After the opening bogey, the defending champion got back even with par by birdieing the par-5 524-yard eighth hole when he pitched a wedge shot six inches to the right of the cup, just missing the eagle-3.

Another birdie at 11 on a 12-foot putt put him one under, an advantage on par that he held the rest of the way.

Taber, the reigning Lincoln city champion, played just as steadily as the leader with only one birdie and one bogey in a round that included 16 pars.

The red-haired LCC member birdied the second hole when he hit a sand wedge second shot to the 305-yard green and sank the two-foot putt.

A three-putt green at the par-3 12th cost Taber a share of the lead with Astleford after the southpaw had hit the green with a 1-iron.

Taber played so well that he missed hitting only two greens in regulation figures — the fifth and seventh—and was in danger of bogeying only the seventh when he became trapped in the trees.

Spangler was the most unsteady of the three leaders, needing four birdies to offset bad holes elsewhere. He double-bogeyed No. 6 when he hit his tee ball only 100 yards and into the trees on the 432-yard hole.

But the former champion came back with three birdies on the back side after making the turn in two-over-par.

Birdie putts of two feet on No. 13, four feet on No. 14 and 20 feet on No. 17 gave him a back nine score of two-under-par 34.

Jack Kendzior, who led Tuesday's qualifying round with a two-under-par 70 went nine-over-par Wednesday with an 81.

LCC Course Strikes Back

. . . KENDZIOR VICTIM

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Omahan Jack Kendzior may have riled the Lincoln Country Club golf course just a bit when he played her in two-under-par Tuesday then rubbed it in by pointing out that he preferred tight lies and hitting out of trouble.

But the course got back at him Wednesday in the first round of the Nebraska State Men's Amateur Golf Tournament.

Kendzior was breezing along as happy as a new father — which he was—until the course sniped back at him with its 402-yard par-4 16th hole inflicting the cutting wounds.

Kendzior found all the trouble anyone needs on the hole. He started by hitting one out of bounds into 20th Street. "That was out of bounds when it went past the tee markers," Kendzior pointed out. "There was no doubt about it."

But this was only the beginning of his battle with trouble. By the time his ball had hit three more trees before finding the green, the former pro had to settle for a five-over-par-9 on the hole en route to a nine-over-par 81 that put him 10 strokes behind defending champion Bob Astleford's leading total.

Kendzior's wife presented him with a baby boy Wednesday morning, but the golfer who led qualifiers Tuesday was at the LCC practice tee about 10 a.m.

"I guess the new baby didn't bother my concentration much until I got to the 16th," the new father remarked. "But something sure went wrong there."

While four of the five leaders in the opening round of the tournament Wednesday played the course extremely well from tee to green, having trouble only with putting, Dick Spangler Jr. was the exception.

Bob Astleford, Matt Taber, Dean Wilson, and Glen Gruenemeier all reached most greens on the 6,709-yard LCC course in regulation figures, but Spangler was the scrambler in the group.

"I didn't do anything well," Spangler replied to a question posed as he figured his scorecard after completing the par-72 round. "I was hitting some this way and some that way," he jested, swinging his arms to both sides to indicate the opposite paths his golf ball was taking on different shots.

Spangler hit only three fairways on the front side wtih his tee shots, but he finally got his drives under control near the end. "I was in the fairway the last three holes," he pointed out.

While Spangler was scraping the ball around in the rough and the trees, the other leaders were having their troubles on the greens.

"I couldn't putt at all," Taber noted. "I was missing eight and 10-footers hole after hole."

Astleford, playing a strange role by staying out of trouble, also had putting woes, missing several short putts. "If I had been able to get a few putts down, I'd had 66."

But Spangler was not looking for any 66s. "The way I hit the ball, 72 is a sensational score."

Spahn To Start Against Reds

San Francisco (AP)—Warren Spahn will make his first start as a San Francisco Giant pitcher Thursday against the Cincinnati Reds.

Nebraskans Get Nearly Half Of Omaha Purse

Omaha (AP)—Nebraska horsemen collected a record high of nearly 50 per cent of the $1,489,185 gross purse distribution during the Ak-Sar-Ben race meeting this year.

General Manager Tom Brock said 142 Nebraska horsemen claimed a record of $591,230.20 in purses during the 42-day meeting.

M. H. Van Berg of Columbus set an all-time high for Ak-Sar-Ben winnings with $121,006. His previous high was $111,404 in 1963.

Others in the top ten of Nebraska owners were Joe Shaver of Omaha, $46,488.75; John Benge of Grant, $24,720; Hanson Stables of North Platte, $18,462.32; W. A. Davidson of Lamar, $17,823.25; Paul Kemling of Aurora, $16,760.87; K. W. Fleisher of Columbus, $15,743.75; Wood River Stables of Wood River, $14,970.25; Kenneth Kirby of Silver Creek, $14,924, and William Fudge of Ashland, $11,913.

Myrtle Red Easily Wins $1,300 Sowers Purse

. . . IN FAIRGROUNDS FEATURE

By BARRY BURKHART
Star Sports Writer

Myrtle Red claimed an easy victory in the $1,300 Sowers Purse feature race Wednesday at the Nebraska State Fairgrounds track which was slow because of morning showers.

The winner, a 2-1 co-favorite with Conga Ruler, took an early lead and sprinted away in the stretch to beat Conga Ruler by 2¼ lengths. The latter ran well back in the pack until the final turn then came on well in the stretch.

Myrtle Red paid $6.20, $3.00 and $2.80; Conga Ruler returned $3.20 and $2.80, with Wee Bomb $3.20 to show.

Five of the eight race winners returned more than $10—$31.40 being the top win payment of the day.

Bonigan returned $31.40, $9.00 and $4.20 with her win in the third race. Bonigan sprinted to long lead from the gate and coasted to a 4½ length victory over show horse Strike It Rich. The latter returned $7.60 and $5.60. Small Byrd finished third, 2¼ lengths behind, and paid $4.20.

C.A. Gem (No. 10) and M.H. Van Berg's Chic Dick (No. 5) combined wins in the first and second races respectively to pay a daily double of $60.60.

Neither winner had much difficulty in posting its victory. C.A. Gem, ridden by leading jockey Fred Ecoffey, took the lead on the inside in the backstretch, held off two challengers and pulled away in the stretch, winning by 2¾ lengths over Fast Host.

Chic Dick, jockeyed by Fred Hare, was never far off the pace before going to the rail in the final turn and taking the lead in the stretch.

The track attendance of 4,270 was up from a year ago at the same time for the tenth consecutive day. Mutuel handle was up $15,849 at $184,690.

Roberts Ousts Colts In American Legion Meet

. . . OPTIMISTS EDGE WITT'S, 4-3

By TOM HENDERSON
Star Sports Writer

Steve Mitchell pitched hitless ball through six innings as Roberts coasted to a 8-0 American Legion Junior district baseball tournament victory over the LAFB Colts Wednesday night at Sherman Field. The defeat eliminates the Colts from further tourney play.

The Lincoln Optimists, made it two in a row in district play, outlasting Ken Witt's, 4-3, in Wednesday night's opener. The Witt's loss was its first in six games against Lincoln competition. It had a 10-4 season record.

Mitchell, who boosted his won-loss mark for the season to 5-1, scattered four walks in the first three innings, but didn't allow any other Colt runners to reach base, as he breezed into the seventh with a comfortable 5-0 advantage.

He then gave up a lead-off single to Colt second-sacker Mike Humphreys, before retiring the side. Humphreys' single was the only hit off the red-headed righthander.

Roberts mopped up the remaining Colt hitters, also allowing only one hit in his two-inning stint. Roberts, however, had control trouble, bouncing baseballs off two opposing batters.

Roberts touched Colt starter Mike Lee for two runs in the fourth, when Tom Kos singled in Kip Deitemeyer and Doug Dworak from third and second respectively.

Mitchell fanned 11 Colts in his seven innings of work, giving up only the four early walks, in gaining the win. Lee took the loss for the Colts, giving up seven runs, six earned, while striking out five and walking four.

Tom Ochsner was given a three-run cushion by the Optimists in the second inning and pitched out of a bases-loaded jam in the bottom of the ninth as he registered his sixth win in the opener.

Ochsner, who gave up only four singles, was troubled by wildness but pitched his way out of trouble on numerous occasions.

Tonight the Optmists will meet Gerry's, winner over Roberts in Tuesday's first-round action, at 6 p.m., while Witt's will face Roberts at 8 p.m. in the loser's bracket of the double elimination tournament.

ASTLEFORD GARNERS LEAD

. . . IN MEN'S STATE TOURNEY

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Writer

Defending champion Bob Astleford, seeking his fourth straight championship, shot the only sub-par round with a 71 to take the first round lead Wednesday in the Nebraska State Men's Amateur Golf Tournament at the Lincoln Country Club.

Two Lincoln Country Club golfers—Matt Taber and Dick Spangler Jr.—played even par to trail by one stroke going into Thursday's second 18 holes of the 72-hole medal play tournament.

The burly Omahan didn't have to rely on his familiar scrambling style Wednesday, hitting 15 greens in regulation and missing only a couple of fairways.

"I was on far more greens than I am accustomed to," he pointed out. "I was just knocking it straight down the fairway and right up on the green," Astleford chuckled.

After the opening bogey, the defending champion got back even with par by birdieing the par-5 524-yard eighth hole when he pitched a wedge shot six inches to the right of the cup, just missing the eagle-3.

Taber, the reigning Lincoln city champion, played just as steadily as the leader with only one birdie and one bogey in a round that included 16 pars.

Spangler was the most unsteady of the three leaders, needing four birdies to offset bad holes elsewhere. He double-bogeyed No. 6 when he hit his tee ball only 100 yards and into the trees on the 432-yard hole.

But the former champion came back with three birdies on the back side after making the turn in two-over-par.

LCC Course Strikes Back

. . . KENDZIOR VICTIM

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Omahan Jack Kendzior may have riled the Lincoln Country Club golf course just a bit when he played her in two-under-par Tuesday then rubbed it in by pointing out that he preferred tight lies and hitting out of trouble.

But the course got back at him Wednesday in the first round of the Nebraska State Men's Amateur Golf Tournament.

Kendzior was breezing along as happy as a new father — which he was—until the course sniped back at him with its 402-yard par-4 16th hole inflicting the cutting wounds.

Kendzior found all the trouble anyone needs on the hole. He started by hitting one out of bounds into 20th Street. "That was out of bounds when it went past the tee markers," Kendzior pointed out. "There was no doubt about it."

But this was only the beginning of his battle with trouble. By the time his ball had hit three more trees before finding the green, the former pro had to settle for a five-over-par-9 on the hole en route to a nine-over-par 81 that put him 10 strokes behind defending champion Bob Astleford's leading total.

Kendzior's wife presented him with a baby boy Wednesday morning, but the golfer who led qualifiers Tuesday was at the LCC practice tee about 10 a.m.

"I guess the new baby didn't bother my concentration much until I got to the 16th," the new father remarked. "But something sure went wrong there."

While four of the five leaders in the opening round of the tournament Wednesday played the course extremely well from tee to green, having trouble only with putting, Dick Spangler Jr. was the exception.

Bob Astleford, Matt Taber, Dean Wilson, and Glen Gruenemeier all reached most greens on the 6,709-yard LCC course in regulation figures, but Spangler was the scrambler in the group.

"I didn't do anything well," Spangler replied to a question posed as he figured his scorecard after completing the par-72 round. "I was hitting some this way and some that way," he jested, swinging his arms to both sides to indicate the opposite paths his golf ball was taking on different shots.

Spangler hit only three fairways on the front side with his tee shots, but he finally got his drives under control near the end. "I was in the fairway the last three holes," he pointed out.

While Spangler was scraping the ball around in the rough and the trees, the other leaders were having their troubles on the greens.

"I couldn't putt at all," Taber noted. "I was missing eight and 10-footers hole after hole."

Astleford, playing a strange role by staying out of trouble, also had putting woes, missing several short putts. "If I had been able to get a few putts down, I'd had 66."

Spahn To Start Against Reds

San Francisco (AP)—Warren Spahn will make his first start as a San Francisco Giant pitcher Thursday against the Cincinnati Reds.

PRISCILLA'S ON A SPREE

Priscilla

Sonji Clay Puts Blame On Islam For Divorce Suit

Miami (AP) — Mrs. Cassius Clay blamed "the leader of the Moslem nation" Wednesday for the breakup of her 11-months-old marriage to the heavyweight boxing champion.

In a circuit court counteraction, pretty, 25-year-old Sonji Clay asked that Clay's suit for annulment or divorce be dismissed, and that she be granted a legal separation and "permanent alimony."

Clay, she said, had shown no cause for action against her. He told her, she added, simply that he had decided to leave her on the advice of "the leader."

Clay had complained in his suit that his wife reneged on a promise to convert to the faith, and did not follow its dictates banning the use of whisky, tobacco and facial makeup and requiring the wearing of plain, floor-length dresses.

Honnor Fans 21 In Moose's Win Over Beatrice

Beatrice — Bill Honnor struck out 21 as Lincoln Moose drubbed previously unbeaten Beatrice, 6-0, here. It was the first loss in 12 starts for Beatrice.

The Moose erupted for four runs in the sixth, with Rich Schwabauer, Mick Zangari, and Honnor driving in the runs.

Zangari had three hits and drove in two runs to lead the Moose attack. Rod Blood had two doubles and Rich Robert two singles for the winners.

The Moose is now 16-2.

Roller Skating Creates Happy Triangle

. . . TRIO WILL COMPETE IN MEET AT PERSHING

Most triangles lead to trouble, but this one has harmony and, above all, success. With Miss Kern, Tassinari holds the North American Senior Pairs title; with Miss Fogarty, he is the North American Free Dance champion.

The three Massachusetts stars will be attempting to retain these championships at the 1965 North Americans at Lincoln, Nebraska's Pershing Municipal Auditorium opening Thursday.

"Defending two championships with two different partners has its problems and its compensations," says David. "The problems include practice schedules and memorizing routines. But skating with two girls like Pat and Diane is a challenge that more than makes up for the problems."

Diane, 21, is a hard-working competitor who will be vying for her third consecutive Senior Pairs title. The 5-2, 115-pound blonde lives in West Roxbury, Mass., and works there as a secretary.

The job leaves time for close to twenty hours of weekly practice at the Roll-Land rink in Norwood, Mass., where she trains for her singles routines as well as her Paris numbers with Tassinari.

For Pat, 23, of Medway, Mass., the Lincoln meet will be but her second experience in North American competition. "Until the RSROA included Free Dance in its championships schedule, I was only a state-wide, and occasionally regional, competitor," Pat remembers.

"Last year was the first time that Free Dance was skated at the North Americans, and it was also the first time I was ever at a North American meet. And when I won — well, you can imagine how I felt!"

Pat works for her father's insurance company in Medway, and hopes to keep skating for some time to come, spreading the popularity of Free Dance competition.

Millions of TV viewers will watch the Tassinari-Kern-Fogarty triangle in action when ABC's Wide World of Sports televises highlites of the 1965 North Americans on Aug. 7th.

Pro Grid Giants To Try College-Style Offense

New York (UPI) — New York's football Giants will be giving it the old college try this season.

They'll try, that is, with a college-style offense — the winged T. That one lets the quarterback pass or run the ball at his own discretion as a play develops.

If it works even a little bit for the Giants, the hard-bitten pros may be in for a dandy revolution and vindication comes to many a stubborn strategist in the ranks of America's college coaches.

The pros have sneered for years that such an offense is utterly unworkable in the National Football League but the Giants are desperate and willing to gamble.

The Giants also have signed Michigan's Bob Timberlake, who is bigger and an even better prospect than Wood at the same stage.

While Sherman may have been pushed by circumstances —the decline of one-time passmaster Y. A. Tittle—there were rumblings around the league a year ago that the defenses were catching up to the offense in general use.

Halfway through the 1964 New York disaster (2-10-2 record), Sherman apparently decided it was time for a change, at least for the Giants. He installed Wood as his No. 1 quarterback, let him run a bit and made notes for a new attack for 1965.

It takes years of apprenticeship to develop an accomplished pro-style quarterback. They long have been far too valuable to risk as ball-carriers on option plays.

Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts is a nifty hand at picking up yardage by running occasionally when his receivers are covered. Cleveland's Frank Ryan even scored a touchdown last year, much to his own amazement.

But generally, they go only when there's nothing else to do.

Most successful passers live by Norm Van Brocklin's code in his playing days, "I run only to save my life."

Today, however, the colleges are turning out far more good quarterbacks than ever. There may be enough of them eventually to make relief pitching as much a part of the game of football as it is in baseball.

It takes time to cure them of the "bad habits" they learned in college, though a few like Fran Tarkenton of the Minnesota Vikings (Van Brocklin's team, yet) have developed a scrambling style of their own.

Sherman obviously feels if his quarterback is gonna run as well as pass there ought to be a little planning. He could be wrong. But if he's right, a revolution may be on the way for pro football.

But generally, they go only when there's nothing else to do.

Most successful passers live by Norm Van Brocklin's code in his playing days, "I run only to save my life."

Today, however, the colleges are turning out far more good quarterbacks than ever. There may be enough of them eventually to make relief pitching as much a part of the game of football as it is in baseball.

It takes time to cure them of the "bad habits" they learned in college, though a few like Fran Tarkenton of the Minnesota Vikings (Van Brocklin's team, yet) have developed a scrambling style of their own.

Sherman obviously feels if his quarterback is gonna run as well as pass there ought to be a little planning. He could be wrong. But if he's right, a revolution may be on the way for pro football.

Greyhound Racing Rich

In recent years the "big stake" idea has spread to greyhound racing from coast to coast. Richest events now are the $80,000 Flagler International Classic at Miami, the $75,000 Phoenix Futurity at Phoenix, and the $50,000 Wonderland Derby at Taunton, Mass.

Soviet Lawyer Claims Guilt Admission

Moscow (UPI)—The Soviet defense attorney for Gerald Brooke, the British teacher accused of subversion in the Soviet Union, said Wednesday his client has "admitted his guilt clearly."

The government-appointed attorney, Nikolai Borovic, said a verdict of guilty is all but certain when Brooke goes on trial here Thursday. Television cameras will film the proceedings and 100 newsmen will attend.

Brooke, 27, faces a from six months to seven years in prison if convicted. A Russian language teacher who attended Moscow University for 10 months in 1959-60, he returned here in April with his wife for a vacation.

While they were visiting a Moscow apartment April 25, KGB (security police) agents rushed in and arrested them.

Mrs. Brooke was interrogated all night, then released. But her husband was questioned for two months in Moscow's Lubyanka Prison before charges were filed accusing him of spreading subversive literature aimed at "undermining, weakening and damaging" the Soviet state.

The Soviet news agency Tass said Tuesday night that Brooke was "caught red-handed by the KGB."

The trial, expected to end Friday or Saturday, will be held before the Criminal Collegium of the Moscow city court, which has moved from its usual courtroom into the concert hall of the Central House of Art Workers for the trial.

Suicide Try Fails During Seoul Protest

Seoul (UPI) — A would-be suicide poured gasoline over himself Wednesday and ignited it in an apparent fiery protest against the controversial South Korea-Japan friendship treaty.

The man, identified as Huh Jik, 63, chairman of the splinter Chupunghoi Party central committee, was rushed to a hospital where he was near death with severe burns on his head, face, hands and legs.

The attempted self immolation occurred outside the South Korean national assembly building where the government has been trying to get ratification of the treaty despite strong opposition.

Shortly before the incident, the assembly had closed an extra-ordinary session called to deliberate ratification of the treaty. The ruling Democratic-Republican Party decided to try to convene a new special parliament session July 29.

Soviet Lawyer Claims Guilt Admission

Moscow (UPI)—The Soviet defense attorney for Gerald Brooke, the British teacher accused of subversion in the Soviet Union, said Wednesday his client has "admitted his guilt clearly."

The government-appointed attorney, Nikolai Borovic, said a verdict of guilty is all but certain when Brooke goes on trial here Thursday. Television cameras will film the proceedings and 100 newsmen will attend.

Borovic said Brooke's old school friends in Moscow will take the stand as character witness in his attempt to get the "minimal sentence."

Brooke, 27, faces a from six months to seven years in prison if convicted. A Russian language teacher who attended Moscow University for 10 months in 1959-60, he returned here in April with his wife for a vacation.

While they were visiting a Moscow apartment April 25, KGB (security police) agents rushed in and arrested them.

Mrs. Brooke was interrogated all night, then released. But her husband was questioned for two months in Moscow's Lubyanka Prison before charges were filed accusing him of spreading subversive literature aimed at "undermining, weakening and damaging" the Soviet state.

The Soviet news agency Tass said Tuesday night that Brooke was "caught red-handed by the KGB."

The trial, expected to end Friday or Saturday, will be held before the Criminal Collegium of the Moscow city court, which has moved from its usual courtroom into the concert hall of the Central House of Art Workers for the trial.

Suicide Try Fails During Seoul Protest

Seoul (UPI) — A would-be suicide poured gasoline over himself Wednesday and ignited it in an apparent fiery protest against the controversial South Korea-Japan friendship treaty.

The man, identified as Huh Jik, 63, chairman of the splinter Chupunghoi Party central committee, was rushed to a hospital where he was near death with severe burns on his head, face, hands and legs.

The attempted self immolation occurred outside the South Korean national assembly building where the government has been trying to get ratification of the treaty despite strong opposition.

Shortly before the incident, the assembly had closed an extra-ordinary session called to deliberate ratification of the treaty. The ruling Democratic-Republican Party decided to try to convene a new special parliament session July 29.

Poverty War Bill Expansion Pushed

Washington (UPI) — The House Wednesday pushed a $1.9 billion expansion of the "war on poverty" toward passage after a debate that ran the gamut from football players on Sargent Shriver's payroll to congressmen's children in "Project Headstart."

The bill was expected to pass Thursday. It would continue the key Great Society measure for a second year, doubling its spending authority.

The first major GOP proposal, to place "community action" programs now initiated and operated on the local level under state supervision, was defeated on a voice vote.

Approved by the House were amendments by Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., floor manager of the bill, permitting youthful Cuban refugees to be recruited for the Job Corps and Neighborhood Youth Corps, and by Rep. Ogden R. Reid, R-N.Y., requiring anti-poverty agencies to provide "reasonable" public access to their books and records.

The football players, Washington Redskins backfield men Ozzie Clay and Lonnie Sanders, came into the debate when Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, pointed out they were among 450 consultants hired by Shriver's Office of Economic Opportunity to help with anti-poverty programs.

The congressman's child involved was five-year-old Michael C. Goodell, son of Rep. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y. After Gibbons told the House that the "Headstart" program was being operated for deprived children from low-income families, Goodell reported that his son had been "invited" to join the program in northwest Washington.

Egyptian Editor Arrested

Cairo (AP)—The editor of one of Egypt's most influential newspapers has been arrested reportedly on charges of giving information to U.S. authorities. Reliable sources said an American embassy official was picked up and questioned in the case Wednesday.

The United Arab Republic's attorney general in a statement said Mustafa Amin, editor and founder of the newspaper Akhbar El Youm, had been arrested in "an important case," but gave no details. It did not mention American officials.

Well informed sources said Egyptian officials in the seaside resort of Alexandria, where Amin was arrested July 17, had questioned an American embassy official there, but apparently released him later.

A U.S. embassy spokesman said, "We are aware of the reports and we are checking them but we believe no Americans are being held at this time." The embassy had no further comment.

The attorney general's brief statement warned that publishing news of Amin's arrest in Cairo newspapers was prohibited.

Amin, a portly 52-year-old veteran of the Egyptian press, was one of the best known newsmen in the Middle East. Akhbar El Youm was founded 21 years ago by him and his brother and was nationalized by the government in 1960.

Some supporters of President Gamal Abdel Nasser indicated they felt Amin supported Nasser's regime with some reluctance but his widely read editorials always reflected the government's views.

He also frequently was known to write anti-American editorials critical of Washington's foreign and Arab policies.

Resources Unit Plans D.C. Office

Washington (AP) — The Midwest Resources Association, which aims at obtaining more government contracts for Midwest states, will set up a permanent office in Washington, it was announced Wednesday.

The decision to establish the office here and name an executive director was made at an executive meeting. It followed an announcement by Gov. George Romney of Michigan, executive committee chairman, that sufficient money has been pledged to maintain a permanent office.

Most of the 12-member states have pledged their shares already and action by the others is expected, Romney said.

Iowa is a member of the association.

"The most important next step will be the selection of the right man to direct the Washington office," Romney said. The salary range is expected to be between $15,000 and $20,000.

Romney said the office will be nonpartisan. Its principal objective will be to strengthen the combined economic position of the Midwest region.

The executive committee designated Romney and Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag of Minnesota as a screening subcommittee for the selection of the executive director. Rolvaag is expected to succeed Romney in September as chairman of the association.

Members of the executive committee, in addition to the two governors, are Sens. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, and Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., and Reps. Mark Andrews, R-N.D., and Melvin Price, D-Ill.

The committee reports to the association's steering committee, which consists of the goverors of the 12 states, plus six senators and six House members.

Car-Motorcycle Crash Injures Lincoln Youth

The youth, Michael L. McCoy, 1825 So. Cotner, was riding a motorcycle east on Summer when it collided with a car driven by Paul Steve Potter, 20, 2411 St. Marys, police said.

Hair Stolen In Rome

Rome (AP) — Police reported the theft of 110 pounds of hair from the shop of a Rome wigmaker. Attilio Giambertoni said the burglars took only blonde hair and left untouched a quantity of natural hair of other hues. He valued the loss at 2.5 million lire ($4,000).

Poverty War Bill Expansion Pushed

Washington (UPI) — The House Wednesday pushed a $1.9 billion expansion of the "war on poverty" toward passage after a debate that ran the gamut from football players on Sargent Shriver's payroll to congressmen's children in "Project Headstart."

The bill was expected to pass Thursday. It would continue the key Great Society measure for a second year, doubling its spending authority.

Republicans first had two dozen amendments to offer before final action.

The first major GOP proposal, to place "community action" programs now initiated and operated on the local level under state supervision, was defeated on a voice vote.

Approved by the House were amendments by Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., floor manager of the bill, permitting youthful Cuban refugees to be recruited for the Job Corps and Neighborhood Youth Corps, and by Rep. Ogden R. Reid, R-N.Y., requiring anti-poverty agencies to provide "reasonable" public access to their books and records.

The football players, Washington Redskins backfield men Ozzie Clay and Lonnie Sanders, came into the debate when Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, pointed out they were among 450 consultants hired by Shriver's Office of Economic Opportunity to help with anti-poverty programs.

The congressman's child involved was five-year-old Michael C. Goodell, son of Rep. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y. After Gibbons told the House that the "Headstart" program was being operated for deprived children from low-income families, Goodell reported that his son had been "invited" to join the program in northwest Washington.

Peace Women Return

Washington (UPI) — Ten American women, all members of Women Strike for Peace, returned from a peace mission to Djakarta, Indonesia where they met with 9 Vietnamese women. They held five days of meetings with the Vietnamese women to discuss the war and means for bringing about a peaceful solution

Egyptian Editor Arrested

Cairo (AP)—The editor of one of Egypt's most influential newspapers has been arrested reportedly on charges of giving information to U.S. authorities. Reliable sources said an American embassy official was picked up and questioned in the case Wednesday.

The United Arab Republic's attorney general in a statement said Mustafa Amin, editor and founder of the newspaper Akhbar El Youm, had been arrested in "an important case," but gave no details. It did not mention American officials.

Well informed sources said Egyptian officials in the seaside resort of Alexandria, where Amin was arrested July 17, had questioned an American embassy official there, but apparently released him later.

A U.S. embassy spokesman said, "We are aware of the reports and we are checking them but we believe no Americans are being held at this time." The embassy had no further comment.

The attorney general's brief statement warned that publishing news of Amin's arrest in Cairo newspapers was prohibited.

Amin, a portly 52-year-old veteran of the Egyptian press, was one of the best known newsmen in the Middle East. Akhbar El Youm was founded 21 years ago by him and his brother and was nationalized by the government in 1960.

Some supporters of President Gamal Abdel Nasser indicated they felt Amin supported Nasser's regime with some reluctance but his widely read editorials always reflected the government's views.

Pedestrian Is Struck By Car At 9th And M

Eugene A. Fritz, 1020 G, received minor injuries Wednesday when he was hit while crossing the street at 9th and M.

Fritz was hit by a car driven by Ernest E. Taylor, 2717 So. 17th, police said.

Resources Unit Plans D.C. Office

Washington (AP) — The Midwest Resources Association, which aims at obtaining more government contracts for Midwest states, will set up a permanent office in Washington, it was announced Wednesday.

The decision to establish the office here and name an executive director was made at an executive meeting. It followed an announcement by Gov. George Romney of Michigan, executive committee chairman, that sufficient money has been pledged to maintain a permanent office.

Most of the 12-member states have pledged their shares already and action by the others is expected, Romney said

"The most important next step will be the selection of the right man to direct the Washington office," Romney said. The salary range is expected to be between $15,000 and $20,000.

Romney said the office will be nonpartisan Its principal objective will be to strengthen the combined economic position of the Midwest region.

The executive committee designated Romney and Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag of Minnesota as a screening subcommittee for the selection of the executive director. Rolvaag is expected to succeed Romney in September as chairman of the association.

Members of the executive committee, in addition to the two governors, are Sens. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, and Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., and Reps. Mark Andrews, R-N.D., and Melvin Price, D-Ill.

The committee reports to the association's steering committee, which consists of the goverors of the 12 states, plus six senators and six House members.

Car-Motorcycle Crash Injures Lincoln Youth

A boy, 17, was injured late Wednesday afternoon in a motorcycle-car accident at 45th and Sumner.

The youth, Michael L. McCoy, 1825 So Cotner, was riding a motorcycle east on Summer when it collided with a car driven by Paul Steve Potter, 20, 2411 St. Marys, police said.

Potter was going north on 45th.

Hair Stolen In Rome

Rome (AP) — Police reported the theft of 110 pounds of hair from the shop of a Rome wigmaker. Attilio Giambertoni said the burglars took only blonde hair and left untouched a quantity of natural hair of other hues. He valued the loss at 2.5 million lire ($4,000).

These are the days of wine and everything coming up roses in the warm summer grape valleys of California.

"I am sorry," said the wine man — (but he sounded pretty happy) — "since the President spoke out in favor of American wine, sales are up. And we simply are out of the kind you want."

The President advised all hands to serve American wine. (De Gaulle should watch out what he does to our gold. And California congressmen should vote for Medicare.)

Anyway, it had a wonderful effect on the wine industry. Wine growers around here no longer jump on grapes. They are too busy walking on air. They hire somebody with big feet to leap on the grapes.

All over the diplomatic world, our ambassadors poured the Musigny '60 down the sink and ordered fresh California "Dewlips" in the gallon jug.

"It may not be a grand vin or premier cru or all that," they said. "But it sure is pro-American. Down the hatch!"

The biggest booster for grape of all times was a Persian poet named Omar Khayyam.

Omar began lapping it up in year 1070. Whenever he set down the empty glass, he wrote a little poem about it. I cannot find out whether he preferred Persian vino. Or maybe he was hipped on that Greek turpentine they call ritsina.

He liked wine. It stirred him to poetry.

They were loaded with grape brandy. When it wore off, the revolution had a hangover and fizzled out.

Still it was an historic moment for the California grape. The Bear Flag flies over the State Capitol and schools today.

How can I explain to my own tots, "The reason your father is drinking beer is because the President sounded off the other day. And now the wineries are out of wine."

☆ ☆ ☆

Beer has not stirred the poets. No Omar has risen to declaim:

As long as them art up, love,

I think the beer people could ask for equal time. If the President leaps on the grape wagon, what about a little plug for brewer's yeast?

Terry Tells Plans On Tax Issue

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff announced on the floor of the Legislature Wednesday he will pay as little taxes as possible next year and dare his county assessor to challenge the action.

He also said he will appear on television and radio throughout Scotts Bluff County to advise fellow taxpayers of their rights and how to assess their property for tax purposes.

"Every taxpayer in my county is going to be aware of his rights. There aren't going to be any arbitrary assessments," he said.

Carpenter made the statements during debate of a legislative resolution directing county assessors to use a uniform method of valuing property for taxation.

The resolution, which was passed for a second time, also provides that no person shall be required to report his property for taxation from a schedule of suggested values until all classes of property are uniformly set forth by the state tax commissioner in consultation with the Nebraska Association of County Assessors.

Reconsidered

The measure had been approved Monday, but was reconsidered Wednesday after Sen. Jules W. Burbach of Crofton said parts of it conflicted with existing state law. These parts were removed.

Carpenter, a co-sponsor of the resolution, said Nebraska taxpayers may use any one or all of the six statutory factors for determining actual value of property for tax purposes.

He said the State Supreme Court confirmed this when it ruled in favor of the State Board of Equalization last spring in his tax challenge case.

Little Equity

"As a taxpayer, I embrace the law," he told his legislative colleagues. "But as a state senator I know it has little equity."

The six factors for determining actual value of property are earning capacity of the property, relative location, desirability and functional use, reproduction cost less depreciation, comparison with other properties of known or recognized value, and the market value in the ordinary course of trade.

Bartley Sen. Lester Harsh, chief introducer of the resolution, decried the present system used to arrive at the assessed value of farm machinery. He said it is grossly unfair.

Farm machinery is assessed on the basis of a set value determined by the County Assessors Association.

Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper said the farmer in general is treated unfairly under Nebraska's property tax laws. He said all property should be assessed uniformly.

Lobbyist Honored

The tables were turned in the Legislature Wednesday as state senators paid tribute to a long-time lobbyist.

Recognized for his 73rd birthday was Charles N. Moon, Lincoln, who has served as a lobbyist in the Nebraska Legislature since 1941 and is generally considered the dean of the lobby corps.

These are the days of wine and everything coming up roses in the warm summer grape valleys of California.

"I am sorry," said the wine man — (but he sounded pretty happy) — "since the President spoke out in favor of American wine, sales are up. And we simply are out of the kind you want."

The President advised all hands to serve American wine. (De Gaulle should watch out what he does to our gold. And California congressmen should vote for Medicare.)

Anyway, it had a wonderful effect on the wine industry. Wine growers around here no longer jump on grapes. They are too busy walking on air. They hire somebody with big feet to leap on the grapes.

All over the diplomatic world, our ambassadors poured the Musigny '60 down the sink and ordered fresh California "Dewlips" in the gallon jug.

"It may not be a grand vin or premier cru or all that," they said. "But it sure is pro-American. Down the hatch!"

The biggest booster for grape of all times was a Persian poet named Omar Khayyam.

Omar began lapping it up in year 1070. Whenever he set down the empty glass, he wrote a little poem about it. I cannot find out whether he preferred Persian vino. Or maybe he was hipped on that Greek turpentine they call ritsina.

He liked wine. It stirred him to poetry.

On the corner of the square in sunny Sonoma in 1846 a bunch of buckskin-jacketed trappers raised the California Bear Flag.

They were loaded with grape brandy. When it wore off, the revolution had a hangover and fizzled out.

Still it was an historic moment for the California grape. The Bear Flag flies over the State Capitol and schools today.

How can I explain to my own tots, "The reason your father is drinking beer is because the President sounded off the other day. And now the wineries are out of wine."

Stock Mart Recovery Try Fails

New York (AP)—The stock market attempted to recover Wednesday and almost made it, but late selling softened the list and it took another loss.

Trading was moderate — 4.36 million shares compared with 4.71 million Tuesday.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 3.78 to 865.01. This loss was a bit more than it showed at the end of the first half hour, a level from which it recovered steadily until it edged into plus territory early in the afternoon. Instead of continuing to rise, however, the market backed away and was sliding in the final minutes.

"The international situation has really taken over," said one analyst. "It has overshadowed all the good news about second-quarter earnings."

Of 1,331 issues traded, 747 declined and 325 advanced. New highs for the year totaled 4 and new lows 43.

Nine of the 15 most-active stocks declined, 4 advanced and 2 were unchanged.

Youngstown Sheet made an unaccustomed trip to a place among the volume leaders. It was sold heavily, losing 2 at 38⅜, following news that its net income declined in the second quarter despite an increase in sales.

In response to dividend boosts, Pullman Inc. rose 1⅜, Richardson-Merrell ⅞ and Continental Can 1¼.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were generally lower.

Barrow, Gilt Prices Rise

Terry Tells Plans On Tax Issue

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff announced on the floor of the Legislature Wednesday he will pay as little taxes as possible next year and dare his county assessor to challenge the action.

He also said he will appear on television and radio throughout Scotts Bluff County to advise fellow taxpayers of their rights and how to assess their property for tax purposes.

"Every taxpayer in my county is going to be aware of his rights. There aren't going to be any arbitrary assessments," he said.

Carpenter made the statements during debate of a legislative resolution directing county assessors to use a uniform method of valuing property for taxation.

The resolution, which was passed for a second time, also provides that no person shall be required to report his property for taxation from a schedule of suggested values until all classes of property are uniformly set forth by the state tax commissioner in consultation with the Nebraska Association of County Assessors.

Reconsidered

The measure had been approved Monday, but was reconsidered Wednesday after Sen. Jules W. Burbach of Crofton said parts of it conflicted with existing state law. These parts were removed.

Carpenter, a co-sponsor of the resolution, said Nebraska taxpayers may use any one or all of the six statutory factors for determining actual value of property for tax purposes.

He said the State Supreme Court confirmed this when it ruled in favor of the State Board of Equalization last spring in his tax challenge case.

Little Equity

"As a taxpayer, I embrace the law," he told his legislative colleagues. "But as a state senator I know it has little equity."

The six factors for determining actual value of property are earning capacity of the property, relative location, desirability and functional use, reproduction cost less depreciation, comparison with other properties of known or recognized value, and the market value in the ordinary course of trade.

Bartley Sen. Lester Harsh, chief introducer of the resolution, decried the present system used to arrive at the assessed value of farm machinery. He said it is grossly unfair.

Farm machinery is assessed on the basis of a set value determined by the County Assessors Association.

Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper said the farmer in general is treated unfairly under Nebraska's property tax laws. He said all property should be assessed uniformly.

Lobbyist Honored

The tables were turned in the Legislature Wednesday as state senators paid tribute to a long-time lobbyist.

Recognized for his 73rd birthday was Charles N. Moon, Lincoln, who has served as a lobbyist in the Nebraska Legislature since 1941 and is generally considered the dean of the lobby corps.

Stock Mart Recovery Try Fails

New York (AP)—The stock market attempted to recover Wednesday and almost made it, but late selling softened the list and it took another loss.

Trading was moderate — 4.36 million shares compared with 4.71 million Tuesday.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 3.78 to 865.01. This loss was a bit more than it showed at the end of the first half hour, a level from which it recovered steadily until it edged into plus territory early in the afternoon. Instead of continuing to rise, however, the market backed away and was sliding in the final minutes.

"The international situation has really taken over," said one analyst. "It has overshadowed all the good news about second-quarter earnings."

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 1.1 to 319.3 with industrials off 1.5, rails off .9 and utilities off .4.

Of 1,331 issues traded, 747 declined and 325 advanced. New highs for the year totaled 4 and new lows 43.

Nine of the 15 most-active stocks declined, 4 advanced and 2 were unchanged.

Youngstown Sheet made an unaccustomed trip to a place among the volume leaders. It was sold heavily, losing 2 at 38¾, following news that its net income declined in the second quarter despite an increase in sales.

In response to dividend boosts, Pullman Inc. rose 1½, Richardson-Merrell ⅜ and Continental Can 1¼.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were generally lower.

Barrow, Gilt Prices Rise

Omaha (AP) — Barrows and gilts ranged from 25 to spots 75 cents higher at Omaha Wednesday. Prices fed on steers and heifers were generally steady to 25 cents higher. Slaughter lambs held steady.

Journal and Star Want Ads

Your low-cost Want Ad appears daily in the Lincoln Star (Morning) and the Lincoln Journal (Evening) or the Sunday Journal and Star at the following cash rates:

Words	Lines	DAYS 1	4	7	10
1-10	2	.80	2.56	3.64	4.00
11-15	3	1.05	3.60	5.25	5.70
16-20	4	1.32	4.64	6.44	7.20
21-25	5	1.60	5.60	8.05	9.00
26-30	6	1.86	6.48	9.24	10.20
31-35	7	2.10	7.28	10.29	11.90

These low-cost rates apply to Want Ads from within the State of Nebraska which are placed for consecutive days and are paid for within 10 days after the ad expires or is canceled. Daily rates for ads from outside Nebraska are 8 cents per word or 40 cents per line.
Single paper rates either evening Journal or morning Star, are 33⅓% of the combination rates. These ads would appear under "Too Late To Classify" column.

Citizens
We have just listed this newer 4 bedroom home in an ideal location for schools and shopping in Northeast area. This home has a rec room in basement, ½ bath, and a large detached garage. If you act now, the kiddies will be situated before school starts. It will fit dad's pocketbook too, it's priced to sell for only $14,000. Why wait?

A perfect setup for some energetic couple who would like to supplement their income with a small equipped grocery attached to this older 3 room bungalow in University Place. We can set you up with a home and this small business for only $500 down plus grocery inventory. Total cost only $8,000—Don't be sorry that you were too late!

Here is a real nice 1½ story brick home located close to Wesleyan campus. There are 3 large bedrooms, newly carpeted living room with fireplace, plus a beautiful 24 ft. by 24 ft. family room. Basement is finished for an apartment or additional living area if needed. All drapes and two window air-conditioners included. Breezeway and garage. It's worth the money at $20,500, so let's look at it and see what you think!

DUPLEX OR LARGE FAMILY HOME—in good location near Wesleyan. It needs a little polishing up, but it can be purchased accordingly. There are 5 rooms down and 4 rooms up, private baths. A real opportunity for someone!

We have just listed this newer 4 bedroom home in an ideal location for schools and shopping in Northeast area. This home has a rec room in basement, ½ bath, and a large detached garage. If you act now, the kiddies will be situated before school starts. It will fit dad's pocketbook too, it's priced to sell for only $14,000. Why wait?

A perfect setup for some energetic couple who would like to supplement their income with a small equipped grocery attached to this older 5 room bungalow in University Place. We can set you up with a home and this small business for only $500 down plus grocery inventory. Total cost only $8,000—Don't be sorry that you were too late!

Here is a real nice 1½ story brick home located close to Wesleyan campus. There are 3 large bedrooms, newly carpeted living room with fireplace, plus a beautiful 24 ft. by 24 ft. family room. Basement is finished for an apartment or additional living area if needed. All drapes and two window air-conditioners included. Breezeway and garage. It's worth the money at $20,500, so let's look at it and see what you think!

DUPLEX OR LARGE FAMILY HOME—in good location near Wesleyan. It needs a little polishing up, but it can be purchased accordingly. There are 5 rooms down and 4 rooms up, private baths. A real opportunity for someone!

SORENSEN:

JFK Was Ill-Advised On Invasion

New York (AP)—Theodore C. Sorensen, a top aide to the late President John F. Kennedy, says that after the 1961 Bay of Pigs fiasco he heard Kennedy ask himself, "How could I have been so stupid, to let them go ahead?"

Sorensen gives his account of Kennedy's role in the abortive Cuban invasion in the current Look magazine. The article is the first of a series of excerpts from a forthcoming book.

Sorensen says the whole Bay of Pigs disaster "seemed to move mysteriously and inexorably toward execution without the president's being able either to obtain a firm grip on it or reverse it."

After Talks

Sorensen's account agrees in substance with the version of another Kennedy aide, Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., published by Life magazine this week. While Schlesinger was in on the invasion plan and advised Kennedy against it, Sorensen learned of it afterward in long talks with Kennedy.

Both the Kennedy aides differ with Richard M. Bissell Jr., a former Central Intelligence Agency official, who said in an interview that the invasion might have succeeded if Kennedy hadn't canceled a second air strike at Fidel Castro's airfields.

The first strike was made early Saturday, April 15, two days before the landing. The second strike was scheduled for dawn Monday after the landing party was ashore.

Project Doomed

Sorensen said the cancellation of the air strike was unimportant because the project was doomed long before that. He said Kennedy told him later he should have canceled the entire operation, not merely the air strike.

"For it was clear to him by then," Sorensen wrote, "that he had in fact approved a plan bearing little resemblance to what he thought he had approved."

Sorensen said there had been objections from such men as Schlesinger and Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., and there were even doubts among some of the CIA and military planners.

'Moved By Necessity'

But those doubts were not pressed, Sorensen wrote, because "both the CIA and the Joint Chiefs were moved more by the necessity of acting swiftly against Castro than by the necessity for caution and success."

"He should have paid more attention to his own politically sound instincts and to the politically knowledgeable men who did voice objections directly," Sorensen wrote, "instead of following only the advice of Latin American experts Adolf Berle Jr. and Thomas Mann."

Mann was not directly available and the State Department declined comment on the matter. Berle was vacationing and unavailable for comment.

'Badly Advised'

After the disaster, Sorensen said Kennedy was "aghast at the enormity of his error, angry at having been badly advised by some and let down by others."

Despite frequent briefing, the President was completely misled about the operation, Sorensen said. Kennedy thought it was to be a "quiet infiltration" with two possible outcomes—"national revolt or a flight to the hills," Sorensen wrote.

Instead, the affair was "trumpeted" in advance as an invasion, and neither a Cuban uprising nor escape of the invaders into the hills was remotely possible, Sorensen said.

SORENSEN:

JFK Was Ill-Advised On Invasion

New York (AP)—Theodore C Sorensen, a top aide to the late President John F Kennedy, says that after the 1961 Bay of Pigs fiasco he heard Kennedy ask himself, "How could I have been so stupid, to let them go ahead?"

Sorensen gives his account of Kennedy's role in the abortive Cuban invasion in the current Look magazine. The article is the first of a series of excerpts from a forthcoming book.

Sorensen says the whole Bay of Pigs disaster "seemed to move mysteriously and inexorably toward execution without the president's being able either to obtain a firm grip on it or reverse it."

After Talks

Sorensen's account agrees in substance with the version of another Kennedy aide, Arthur M Schlesinger Jr., published by Life magazine this week While Schlesinger was in on the invasion plan and advised Kennedy against it. Sorensen learned of it afterward in long talks with Kennedy.

Both the Kennedy aides differ with Richard M. Bissell Jr., a former Central Intelligence Agency official, who said in an interview that the invasion might have succeeded if Kennedy hadn't canceled a second air strike at Fidel Castro's airfields.

The first strike was made early Saturday, April 15, two days before the landing. The second strike was scheduled for dawn Monday after the landing party was ashore.

Project Doomed

Sorensen said the cancellation of the air strike was unimportant because the project was doomed long before that. He said Kennedy told him later he should have canceled the entire operation, not merely the air strike.

"For it was clear to him by then," Sorensen wrote, "that he had in fact approved a plan bearing little resemblance to what he thought he had approved."

Sorensen said there had been objections from such men as Schlesinger and Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., and there were even doubts among some of the CIA and military planners.

'Moved By Necessity'

But those doubts were not pressed, Sorensen wrote, because "both the CIA and the Joint Chiefs were moved more by the necessity of acting swiftly against Castro than by the necessity for caution and success."

"He should have paid more attention to his own politically sound instincts and to the politically knowledgeable men who did voice objections directly," Sorensen wrote, "instead of following only the advice of Latin American experts Adolf Berle Jr. and Thomas Mann."

Mann was not directly available and the State Department declined comment on the matter. Berle was vacationing and unavailable for comment.

'Badly Advised'

After the disaster, Sorensen said Kennedy was "aghast at the enormity of his error, angry at having been badly advised by some and let down by others."

Despite frequent briefing, the President was completely misled about the operation, Sorensen said. Kennedy thought it was to be a "quiet infiltration" with two possible outcomes—"national revolt or a flight to the hills," Sorensen wrote.

Instead, the affair was "trumpeted" in advance as an invasion, and neither a Cuban uprising nor escape of the invaders into the hills was remotely possible, Sorensen said.
